GORE RESOLUTION TABLED, 68-14

SUSPECT IS REFUSED BAIL

Eldest Son of Albert Roper of Tewksbury Pleads Not Guilty in Greenhouse Death Mystery

Albert J. Roper of Boston and Tewsbury was formally arrested at Lowell police station today on the charge of murdering his father, Albert Roper, the rich flower grower and carnation specialist, who was beaten to death with a piece of lead pipe and robbed in his Tewksbury greenhouse last Wednesday night.

Young Roper, eldest of the florist's five sons, had been held on suspicion over night at Lowell jail. He set up an alibi that he was at the home of Mrs. Jessie Fox at No. 16 Wait street, Roxbury, the night of the murder.

The Lowell police obtained today, they said, evidence that the son was in Tewksbury that night. On the strength of this they obtained a murder warrant from Assistant Clerk Edward W. Trull of Lowell district court.

Roper was put under formal arrest and then was arraigned before Judge Thomas B. Enright. He was represented by William H. Wilson, a Lowell attorney.

Roper pleaded not guilty. At the request of Police Superintendent Redmond Welch the case was continued until March 14. Roper was held without bail and was locked up again.

INSISTS ON ALIBI.

The Lowell officers put Roper through an extended "third degree" in the morning, while he was still held only on suspicion. He stuck to his alibi story.

Alfred Harnden of Tewsbury told the

THREE KILLED IN WRECK AT ALBANY

Albany, March 3.—Three persons were killed and a fourth was fatally injured in a rear-end collision here between a freight and a passenger train on the New York Central.

Train No. 36 from the West was lying on a side track near the Livingstone avenue bridge when a fast freight backed into it.

Traffic on the bridge was blocked for many hours. One car was almost telescoped and men are at work trying to remove those who are still imprisoned. One man, still unidentified, was carried into a signal tower with his head all but severed from his body.

Engineer Jacob Troxler of the American Express train, which collided with the passenger coach, states that the brakes of his engine failed to work.

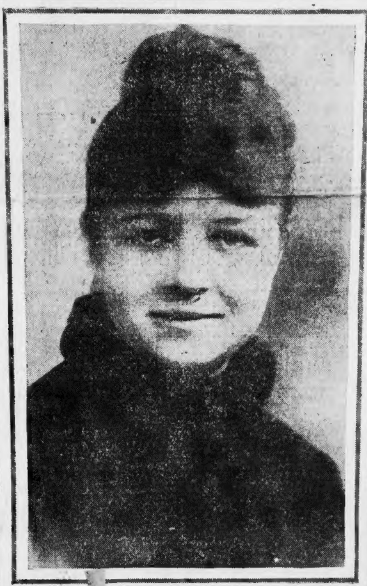
London, March 3.—The Russian Council of the Empire has passed the first reading of the income tax bill.

FIRST PICTURE OF KATE HARRISON, GIRL BRIDE SLAYER



© INTERNATIONAL FILM SERVICE

Fort Worth, Texas, March 3.—Katherine Vance Harrison, the girl bride, who shot and killed W. L. Warren, must prove that she was under age at the time. Otherwise she will be prosecuted with all the rigor brought to bear in murder cases in which adults are the defendants.

This announcement was made at the office of the county attorney. Prosecutor Spoons declared he would proceed with the trial without respect for the wealth and social position of Mrs. Harrison's father-in-law, the millionaire banker, James Harrison.

The controversy over Mrs. Harrison's age was complicated by the admission of her mother, Mrs. Bessie Tackett, that she had no documentary evidence to sustain her assertion that Katherine is only fifteen. Warren's relatives are urging legal action on the basis that she is eighteen years old.

While Mrs. Tackett adheres to her original declaration that Katherine falls three years short of being an adult within the definition of the law, she is unable to produce a birth certificate. She says she knows the present residence of the physician who attended her at Katherine's birth.

The Harrisons are trying strenuously to get in touch with him.

Death is the penalty for the girl bride's crime if she was an adult when she committed it. If, on the other hand, she was a minor, the only punishment which could be administered would be a sentence to a reformatory.

FORCES OF DIAZ MOVE AGAINST MEXICO CITY

By International News Service.

New Orleans, March 3.—Forces of General Felix Dias are moving upon Mexico City from the east and south, according to cablegram received here today.

The message stated that General Dias is personally leading his army from Tierra Colorado, Vera Cruz. He has captured four-fifths of the Inter-Oceanic Railroad, which runs between Vera Cruz and the capital.

Small bands of Carranza troops are joining the new revolutionary movement, the cablegram said, and Dias is in control of one-fourth of Mexico.

Salina Cruz is reported to have been taken by General Andreau Almazan, who is planning to move upon Puerto Mexico next.

French Admit Reverse at Douaumont in New Drive of Foe at Verdun; Terrific Cannonade

London, March 3.—Fresh German gains in a new drive on Verdun, a British victory in West Flanders and artillery action of frightful volume mark today's dispatches on the activity along the west front.

The French officially admit that the Germans pierced the line near Verdun at Douaumont.

Berlin officially announced the capture of the village of Douaumont, where battles of unprecedented fury have raged intermittently for the past eleven days.

RELEASE GARRISON.

The capture of the village of Douaumont releases the Brandenburgers who were isolated in Fort Douaumont when they took it by storm several days ago.

The French declare the German losses in the attack on Douaumont were enormous.

Unofficial reports from German sources, via Geneva, declare that Fort Moulainville, one of the Verdun defences, has been taken by the Germans. No mention of this fort, however, is contained either in the French or German official statements.

Berlin admits that the British broke through the German lines south of Ypres and gained a foothold in the bastion which had been captured by the Germans on February 14.

The cannonade in West Flanders has continued for more than ninety-six hours, the roar of the great guns being audible on the Dutch-Belgian frontier.

The Berlin official report says:

"West front—Southeast of Ypres, on the canal, the English broke into the bastion we had taken on February 14 and penetrated a small front into what had previously been our advanced trenches. They were immediately driven out of the trench

DEBATE CHOKED OFF AND VOTE IS TAKEN SUDDENLY

Washington, March 3.—The Senate today voted, 68 to 14, to lay upon the table without debate the resolution offered by Senator Gore of Oklahoma, which would have withdrawn from American citizens the right to travel on armed belligerent merchantmen. The resolution, however, had been drastically amended so that the vote decided nothing on the principal question.

President Wilson had asked: "An early vote upon the resolution with regard to travel on armed merchantmen."

The effect of the vote today was to postpone indefinitely any decisive vote on the merits of the question of such travel.

CALLED A SCOTCH VERDICT.

An amendment had been offered to the resolution by Senator Gore himself, before the vote today, which expressly stated that sinking an armed merchantman with Americans aboard would be "a cause of war."

This amendment was tabled with the resolution. Senator Gore himself and Senator Stone, leader of the Senate, who has declared himself as opposing the President's attitude on armed liners, voted in favor of laying the resolution on the table.

One Senator called today's vote a "Scotch verdict." Senator Jones of Washington said:

"We have decided nothing. We have stuck our heads in the sand like ostriches. We have not complied with the President's request."

"WE HAVE DECIDED NOTHING," SAYS SEN. JONES.

The tabling of the Gore resolution did not stop debate of the international situation. Senator Reed of Missouri took the floor to explain his vote. He denounced Senator Williams' declaration of yesterday that the time has come to decide whether to sing "America" first or "Deutschland uber Alles."

"German statesmen would find in that statement more encouragement to believe that the United States is divided than in anything else said on the subject," said Reed. "There was much talk here about traitors yesterday. This is no time to be casting aspersions on the loyalty of any of us. There aren't ten thousand disloyal citizens in the whole United States."

Senator Reed said there was good reason to believe favorable news would be received from abroad in the next few days.

Senator Jones of Washington, declared the vote on the Gore resolution had settled nothing, and said he would renew the fight immediately. He read the President's letter to Representative Pou urging free discussion of the submarine issues in Congress.

"Scotch Verdict" for Wilson; Senate Gagged as Gore Resolve Is Tabled

"The Senator from Washington does not seem to be in touch with the subterranean channels," suggested Senator Borah.

"I think I am but I did not intend to mention it," said Senator Jones. "The fact remains we have decided nothing. The world knows that we have not passed on the submarine issue.

"It will be an easy matter for me to introduce another resolution on this subject."

A hot exchange followed between Senator Jones and Senator Myers, of Montana, who defended the action taken. Myers declared it was the "best way of getting rid of a bad thing."

Senator Clarke, of Arkansas, declared that by its action on the Gore resolution, "The Senate in a manner not creditable to itself had abrogated its right to be heard on all subjects." He asserted that if "The United States had been neutral from the outset, the war would now be well over."

Senators insisted that adoption of the resolution, while warning Germany and Austria, would have taken from the hands of the President any discretionary powers he might now possess.

Probably not since the European crisis became acute has there been such a throng in the Senate wing as struggled for admission today. Every seat was filled, official and diplomatic Washington being well represented.

The Senate met at 11 o'clock, an hour earlier than usual, to get the necessary routine out of the way and clear the decks for action. Every member not ill or excused was in his seat, and the tension was distinctly noticeable when Senator Stone, as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, secured recognition and moved that the Senate proceed to consideration of the Gore resolution.

SHUT OFF ALL DEBATE.

Every preparation had been made to prevent debate. Senator Gore, although the author of the resolution, was refused permision to explain it, Senator James, Democrat, Kentucky, being recognized by the chair to move to lay the Gore resolution on the table.

Voting on the resolution began at 11.40. Just before the roll was ordered Senator Gore had offered an amendment to his resolution to contain the warning that sinking of an armed merchant ship with Americans on board "will be a cause of war," in that way warning Germany what the result must be, but the motion to table was applied to the amendment as well as to the original resolution.

DENOUNCE TRAITOR TALK.

The tabling of the resolution did not stop debate of the international situation. Senator Reed of Missouri took the floor to explain his vote. He denounced Senator Williams' declaration of yesterday that the time has come to decide whether to sing "America first" or "Deutschland uber Alles."

"German statesmen would find in that statement more encouragement to believe that the United States is divided than in anything else said on the subject," said Reed. "There was talk here about traitors yesterday. This is no time to be casting aspersions on the loyalty of any of us. There aren't ten thousand disloyal citizens in the whole United States."

Senator Reed said there was good reason to believe favorable news would be received from abroad in the next few days.

Senator Jones, of Washington, declared the vote on the Gore resolution had settled nothing, and said he would renew the fight immediately.

"We have decided nothing today, except that the Senate can be gagged," declared Jones. "We have stuck our head in the sand like ostriches. We have not complied with the President's request."

He then read the President's letter to Representative Pou urging free discussion of the submarine issue in Congress.

"The Senator from Washington does not seem to be in touch with the subterranean channels," suggested Senator Borah.

"I think I am, but I did not intend to mention it," said Senator Jones. "The fact remains we have decided nothing. The world knows that we have not passed on the submarine issue.

"It will be an easy matter for me to introduce another resolution on this subject."

A hot exchange followed between Jones and Senator Myers of Montana, who defended the action taken. Myers declared it was the "best way of getting rid of a bad thing."

Senator Clarke of Arkansas declared that by its action on the Gore resolution, "The Senate, in a manner not creditable to itself, has abrogated its right to be heard on all subjects." He asserted that if "the United States had been neutral from the outset the war would now be well over."

An hour before the Senate met, corridors and galleries were thronged with a sensation-seeking crowd. Every gallery seat was filled and scores of people stood about the gallery corridors. Many of the crowd were women, and the gay coloring of gowns and millinery somewhat relieved the air of the solemnity that pervaded the chamber.

Many members of the House crowded the rear of the Senate floor. Secretary of State Lansing's family took seats in the front row of the diplomatic gallery. The Senators rose and stood in solemn silence as the chaplain prayed for Divine guidance when the Senate convened at 11 o'clock.

Senator Stone asked that the reading of the daily journal be suspended and the Senate proceeded to clean up minor details of routine business.

Senator Smith, of Michigan sought to present a petition in the form of a telegram relating to the Gore resolution. He wanted it read but Senator Stone objected and the petition went to the Foreign Relations Committee.

TENSION RELIEVED

The tension was relieved by a hysterical laugh that swept floor and galleries when the Senate received a report from the District of Columbia committee on a bill to close the barber shops of Washington on Sunday. The let-down was momentary, however, and the buzz of excited, expectant conversation was resumed.

Various Senators presented petitions relating to the submarine controversy. All of them were referred to the Foreign Relations Committee without being read. As the Senate dragged through the routine business, the crowds in the corridors outside the gallery became impatient and sought to struggle in. At several doors extra guards were necessary to handle the crowds.

The Brazilian ambassador took a place in the diplomatic gallery. No representatives of the belligerent European nations were present. Senator Stone took the floor at 11.25.

"I ask that the Senate joint resolution 14 be taken up," he said.

Senator Gore jumped to his feet.

"A question of personal privilege," he shouted.

GORE TRIES TO SPEAK.

Senator McCumber halted the proceedings to present a proposed amendment.

Senator Stone sought to prevent the reading of the amendment, which was in the nature of a substitute, but without result.

The McCumber substitute reviewed the entire international situation. It stated that while Americans have the right to travel on belligerent ships, it was their duty not to exercise it. There was no possibility of action on the substitute.

The Gore resolution was laid before the Senate at the request of Senator Stone. Senator James, of Kentucky, moved to lay the motion on the table. In vain Senator Gore sought an opportunity to talk and clamored for the floor.

Vice-President Marshall said Gore could present an amendment, but could not debate it. Thereupon the Oklahoma Senator proposed an amendment setting forth that "the sinking of an armed merchant ship with Americans on board by a German submarine will be a cause of war between the United States and the German empire."

Senator James moved to lay the amendment as well as the resolution on the table and a rollcall vote was ordered.

Senator Owen of Oklahoma conferred with the President prior to the meeting of the Senate. He said he went to the White House at the request of several Senators, who wanted first-hand information from the President whether there was any other reason for the demand for action other than what already has been made public.

The President told him, he said, there was not; that the situation was simply that the United States must preserve all of its rights guaranteed under international law.

"The President said it would not be right to change our course now," said Owen. "He also personally assured me that there never was the slightest basis for the charge made by Senator Gore that the President believed participation in the war might not be a bad thing. The exact contrary is the case, the President said."

Representative Pou, acting chairman of the House rules committee, also conferred with the President. He assured the executive that action will be taken by the House and that in his opinion the President will be sustained. However, nothing will be done until the Foreign Affairs Committee can agree on the action it desires to recommend.

MAY FOLLOW SENATE.

The Rules Committee will not meet today, thus making it certain that the House at least will not act before tomorrow at the earliest and probably not until next week.

It is certain that sentiment is growing in the House to follow the lead of the Senate by reporting out the McLemore resolution and then tabling it. Such a motion, it was said today, would command almost unanimous Republican support, although if forced to go on record on the merits of the case the Republicans, as well as the Democrats, would be badly divided.

TEXT OF THE GORE RESOLUTION ON WHICH SENATE VOTED TODAY

Washington, March 3.—The text of the Gore resolution, which came up in the Senate today, follows:

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

Whereas, a number of leading powers of the world are now engaged in a war of unexampled proportions; and,

Whereas, the United States is happily at peace with all of the belligerent nations; and,

Whereas, it is equally the desire and the interest of the American people to remain at peace with all nations; and,

Whereas, the President has recently afforded fresh and signal proofs of the superiority of diplomacy to butchery as a method of settling international disputes, and,

Whereas, the right of American citizens to travel on unarmed belligerent vessels has recently received renewed guarantees of respect and inviolability, and,

Whereas, the right of American citizens to travel on armed belligerent vessels rather than upon unarmed vessels is essential neither to their life, liberty nor safety, nor to the independence, dignity or security of the United States, and,

Whereas, Congress alone has been vested with the power to declare war, which involves the obligations to prevent war by all proper means consistent with the honor and vital interest of the nation. Therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring) that it is the sense of the Congress vested as it is with the sole power to declare war, that all persons owing allegiance to the United States should, in behalf of their own safety and the vital interest of the United States, forbear to exercise the right to travel as passengers on any armed vessel of any belligerent power, whether such vessel be armed for offensive or defensive purposes.

And it is the further sense of the Congress that no passport should be issued or renewed by the Secretary of State or by any one acting under him to be used by any person owing allegiance to the United States for purpose of travel upon any such armed vessel of a belligerent power.

Says U. S. Will Soon Be in War

By DR. ELLERY C. STOWELL,

Professor of International Law in Columbia College.

New York, March 3.—Doubtless the general feeling in such a crisis as this will be that every one should keep quiet and allow the constituted authorities freedom to settle matters. But it is just in such moments as this that every one should express himself. Now is the time for consultation. Tomorrow may be the period of action, when every American citizen will stand back of the President in whatever course he may decide to follow.

I have not the slightest doubt that President Wilson took the very wisest step in calling upon Congress to give an expression of opinion to guide him in the present crisis. This is as it should be. There is no reason why any members of Congress should resent such action unless they wish to vote in a way which they would not like to have recorded before the expectant country. It is the constitutional duty of Congress to define the law of nations.

It is impossible for us to know whether President Wilson actually said that our entering a state of war might not be an evil, but might bring peace next Summer and thus render a great service to civilization. It would be an almost unheard-of thing for the President to admit that he had made such a statement, even if it should be the case, because of his official character, and because in the present condition of affairs it would be taken as an expression of the national will.

FAVORS U. S. ENTRY INTO WAR.

But it is hard to understand the outburst of indignation in Congress against the President for the remarks which he is stated to have made. The President either thought it was necessary for us to take such action to uphold American honor and based his words upon conviction, or he has reached these conclusions from his recent extensive tour of the country, in which he had the widest opportunity of getting in touch with public opinion.

Congressmen in Washington are not in a position, are not as well placed nor are they as able to understand the feeling of the American people as the President. I am convinced that the great majority of the American people are back of the President in his recent firm stand in regard to what he considers the maintenance of American rights.

I am not at all certain that our entry into the war would have the effect of bringing about peace at such an early date. But I do think it is the right thing for the American people to do. Can we, one of the greatest nations of the earth, stand by and see the French in danger of losing their national existence because Germany, in an aggressive onslaught through Belgium, thought she could get the drop on Europe?

"RISING TIDE OF INDIGNATION."

"I know the German people and I love the German people. I have great hopes that the magnificent qualities which they have shown will make of the new Germany one of the grandest of states. But I abhor the cynical, Machiavellian policies of a group of men in control of the German government who dared throw down the gauntlet to civilization and invade Belgium only a few hours after they had solemnly assured the Belgium government that they would respect her neutrality.

The German people can easily make peace on good terms whenever they realize what an incubus their present government is; when the scales fall from their eyes and they throw it off and put in its place men who will apply to the affairs of government some of the principles of good faith which prevail among individuals.

As I study conditions about me, I notice a rising tide of indignation against Germany. We shall probably soon be in the war, and we might well make up our minds to it.

We should go into the war becau of Germany's violations of intern tional law when she invaded Belgiu although that is now ancient histor And we should go into the war because the world will not be as comfortable a place for the American people to dwell in should Germany reap the benefit of her agression.

If we allow French civilization to go down, the world will be the loser. If Germany does not manifest intention to respect American rights on the high seas and elsewhere, the sooner we break with her the better.

On the Remington and Nowhere Else

Here are two facts about the Remington which every typewriter buyer should know:

1. The Remington Column Selector adds 25 per cent. to the letter writing speed of the typist. This is not a claim or an estimate. It is a definite fact—proved and established by any number of comparative tests.

2. The Column Selector is a Remington feature exclusively. No other machine has it—or anything like it.

Adds 25 per cent. to the speed
Adds nothing to the price

Oh, yes, other machines have devices which look like it, with the five keys, etc. It is easy for a salesman, who knows the supreme merit of this Remington feature, to call them "column selector" keys. But there is no other device on any other typewriter which can do what the Remington Column Selector does.

The Remington Column Selector is the only feature on any typewriter which permits instantaneous setting of the carriage at any desired point on the line.

It is the only feature which provides this setting by either forward or backward movement.

It is the only feature which provides true "express service" with no stop-to-stop movement in reaching any writing point.

And these are the features which make the 25 per cent. speed gain.

Let us show you the real and only Column Selector—on the Model 10 Remington.

WANTS HIS OWN BABY SLAIN

By International News Service.

Des Moines, Iowa, March 3.—"I want you to kill my deformed baby. The doctors won't do it and it will be wrong to let it live," was the request made of the police by Charles Cleveland, a laborer, whose two months' old daughter, Dorothy, was born sub-normal.

"We want the baby put to sleep in a painless way, yet so that it will never waken," said Cleveland. "It can't live in the awful condition it is in, and it is driving my wife and myself crazy. I have not had the shoes off my feet since the baby was born, for it has kept me awake throughout every night."

Chief of Police Edward Crawford told Cleveland it would be murder to kill the child. "It is old enough to have a soul. We can't commit murder," he said.

"That is what the doctors said, if some body doesn't kill it. I will have to because I can't let it live," declared Cleveland.

A policeman accompanied Cleveland to his home, where the child was lying in a tiny crib. The father pointed out the child's deformities about the mouth.

"The doctors say the child can never eat solid food. It must be feed liquids," said Cleveland.

"Be quiet," cautioned the mother. "She'll wake up and cry. That's all she's done since she was born."

"The doctors gave it up when she was born," Cleveland declared, "but they said an operation might save it. I haven't got the money, though. It would cost me $400 just on a gamble, and the child would never be right. It's a sin against God to let it live."

"Do you love your baby?" the parents were asked.

"Yes we love it, we love it so much we don't want to see it go through life deformed and suffering untold agony," answered the father.

"A series of operations might restore the child to nearly a normal condition," said Dr. A. C. Hutchins, who attended at its birth. "The parents noted its condition when it was born and spoke about the uselessness of its living, but I refused to let it die."

Dr. Hutchins said one operation had been performed in an effort to correct the deformities, and the mother had taken the child away before other operations could follow. Unless the child's brain or spinal system are impaired, Dr. Hutchins added, it could be made into nearly a normal child, though its face would never have a natural appearance.

Dr. Guy Clift, City Physician, will pass on the fate of the child. He probably will recommend that it be placed in a charitable institution, if one can be found willing to receive it.

DAVID MERRITT, 94, A SUICIDE AT SALEM

David Merritt, the "Grand Old Man" of Salem, who ran Merritt's Boston-North Shore Express for sixty years and made a fortune, who went through the San Francisco earthquake in 1906 without a scratch and whose home was burned in the big Salem fire of 1914, committed suicide today by shooting himself in his new home on Dearborn street in Salem at the age of ninety-four. A sudden attack of illness is said to have caused the self-destruction.

Mr. Merritt was born in Marblehead in 1821. He founded his express business in 1845 and sold it in 1904. He was widely known through Essex County and along the North Shore through his business contact with so many persons.

He was unusually active in extreme age. His new home on Dearborn street was a mile from the centre of Salem. Mr. Merritt would walk into the business section of the city nearly every day to see old friends and keep in touch with local interests.

He passed Summers at his shore place on Clifton Heights.

MME. MARIE MARION PRIMA DONNA, DIES

By International News Service.

Chicago, March 3.—Mme. Marie Diro Marion, prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York, in 1887 and 1888, is dead at her home, No. 7761 Normal avenue. She was sixty-four. Mme. Marion came here twenty-seven years ago. She taught two years in the Chicago Conservatory of Music. For fifteen years she was a teacher at the Academy of Our Ladies, at Longwood.

Before she came to America Mme. Marion appeared at the Covent Garden in London and at the Royal Opera House in Paris. Her last European appearance was made at the Royal Opera House in Berlin, Germany, in 1886. At the Chicago World's Fair Mme. Marion sang "Home Sweet Home" to an audience in honor of Carter Harrison, on the afternoon of the evening the present Mayor Carter Harrison's father was shot.

STORE IS ROBBED AS OWNER SLEEPS

Springfield, March 2.—While Henry L. Robbins was sleeping in his store to protect it from burglars last night, the place was entered by thieves, who stole the contents of the cigar case and also secured a small amount of money from the cash drawer.

BOSTON GIRL IS BURNED AT REHEARSAL

Mrs. Arthur Stickney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy W. Currier of Commonwealth avenue, was seriously burned while rehearsing for a society play in St. Louis, according to dispatches from that city.

Enveloped in flames and screaming with pain she dashed off the stage and ran into a stage box. There two members of the St. Louis younger society set tore down one of the box curtains and smothered the flames.

Mrs. Stickney had been standing in the wings waiting for her cue to go on the stage. She was wearing a filmy dress trimmed with heavy metallic braid. Immediately behind her was a switchboard, which controlled the stage lights.

In taking a step backward the braid came in contact with one of the electric switches. There was a flash of flame as a short circuit was established and in an instant the dress was a mass of flames.

In an effort to escape from the fire, Mrs. Stickney started to run in the direction of the stage box. A stage hand, as she passed, stuck out his foot and tripped her, causing her to fall face forward on the floor of the box. This probably saved her life, for by running, she fanned the flames.

"Please don't let this stop the play," Mrs. Stickney groaned, as the panic-stricken amateurs gathered about her. "Go on with the rehearsal."

Two physicians were summoned to the theatre and dressed the burns. Both arms from the elbows to her shoulders were badly burned, as were her back and legs.

Mrs. Stickney had the star part in "Love in a Toy-Shop," which is to be produced tonight before a fashionable audience, with Mayor Mitchel of New York as guest of honor. She took the part only two days ago, after the star quit in a huff because the stage director criticized the manner in which she walked across the stage.

POMEROY TELLS OF FILMS

Jesse Pomeroy, the noted lifer at State prison, has written his impressions of his first motion picture show, "The Battle Cry of Peace," for the institution paper, under his nom de plume, "Grandpa." He points out that "everyone owes a duty to the nation—in or out of prison." He also makes a strong plea that this country be adequately prepared to resist any foreign aggressions.

His views of the influence of such entertainment on prison life are thus expressed in his essay: "In striving to fit ourselves to keep in line with the procession, the films and other indulgences we have had are a step forward, for our help."

In part, the views of the famous life prisoner are thus expressed:

"All things have a first time, and I do not doubt that when Rip van Winkle woke up from that twenty-year bit he did in bed, his surprise and delight, could he have seen the moving pictures, would have been no greater than was my experience last Sunday at my first movie show, "The Battle Cry of Peace," presented in our chapel by the kindness of the authorities and of Mr. Howard, the owner."

TELLS FILM'S SECRET.

"Shakespeare, in one of his inimitable plays, tells us 'All the world's a stage.' He goes on to say that we are all players. The play of life is infinite in surroundings and details; whatever brings to view life—'one half does not know how the other half lives'—will always find a welcome and eager desire for more, as wise Shakespeare well knew.

"Bobby Burns has said:

'O wad some power the giftie gie us
To see oursel's as ithers see us.'

"For we are greatly interested in human affairs, especially our neighbors', and this is the secret of the powerful hold that the movies have upon us—the power to see ourselves, or one another, as in life we live. The true, the natural, if with movement, is ever received joyously as in the pantomime of years ago the life itself is portrayed. Such are my reflections, with others to follow, for strange as it may seem, I do at times reflect (Ahem!)

"MARKS NEW ERA TO ME."

"Beginning seriously to depict motion on the screen, or give a semblance of motion, some 40 years ago we had the zeotrope, thaumatrope and others. More or less success was had—generally less—in presenting by rapid motion of the pictures or accessories an optical illusion of moving life; but until Edison, in 1889, perfected his machine, there was nothing worth consideration compared with the success nowadays."

He tells of the interest that he felt when informed that the picture show would be given in the prison chapel, and recalls the stir that was created years ago when the first experiments with moving pictures were announced.

"It marks an era in coming to us here," he says of the film: "more so to me, perhaps, than all others, for no doubt all but myself have seen more or less variety in years past of moving pictures.

HASN'T SEEN MANY THINGS.

"My experience in life some forty-five years ago, as a little boy, when the magic lantern was the great thing, we boys thinking it bang-up, is still in my mind. I can recall the ecstatic thrills of joy that chased up and down my spine when, in 1871, I sat in the Trinity Church on High street, just beyond the prison, and saw my last entertainment by that means. All was still life—no motion—often crude pictures; afterward the process was improved, photographs being shown on the screen."

"Not yet have my eyes seen aeroplane, battleship, torpedo or its boat, big guns, submarines, electrics, wireless; nor had I a chance to use a telephone. Pictures everyone sees; reading galore any may have; but the seeing and reading are not like things, as was my idea in the chapel last Sunday.

WANTS U. S. PREPARED.

"Those two and a half hours of unalloyed delight will ever be remembered; too interesting to be tiresome; and then to return to our den and partake of green peas and salt salmon for supper. A good appetite comes with much laughter, as Shakespeare says, and I found to my satisfaction it was so.

"The wide oceans are indeed our protection, yet ships are fast," is the lesson he draws for preparedness. "Secrecy and darkness would allow a surprise with no declaration of war against us, the fleet being, maybe, in Southern waters.

"If true that within 200 miles of New York most of the munition factories are placed, a blow there would be indeed in the solar plexus, as the reel said, of our Uncle Sam. Immense loss, damage and misery would result from an unprepared condition."

MANCHESTER MAN TERRIBLY BURNED

Manchester, N. H., March 3.—Raoul St. Jean, 35, of No. 25 Bridge street, was terribly burned this morning when a lamp tipped over on him while he slept. A fellow roomer saw smoke pouring out from his window. He notified the police and the man was taken to the hospital in a frightful condition. The loss was placed at $100 by the police.

Brogan Victor in Clash Over Lawrence Board

Michael F. Brogan today won his fight to be recognized as a member of the License Commission of Lawrence, when the full Bench of the Supreme Court issued a writ of mandamus commanding Mayor Kane of Lawrence and the commission to recognize his standing.

The case had been taken to the full Bench on appeal after Brogan won a decision in the lower courts.

Brogan was appointed by Mayor Scanlan. Upon the latter's death Mayor Kane appointed Daniel F. McCarthy to the place held by Brogan, claiming that Brogan had never taken the oath of office, and so had never qualified.

The full Bench found today that no oath of office was required of License Commissioners, and that Brogan qualified when he attended a meeting on September 8, 1914, presented his letter of appointment, and was allowed to participate in the meeting.

Sunday's Inland Chef Spurns Sea Food of Epicure

By International News Service.

Baltimore, March 3.—Mrs. Rose Foutts, the Ohio housekeeper of Billy Sunday, rejected a gift brought by an admiring fisherman of Sunday—food fit for the gods—that would have sent an epicure into the seventh heaven of delight.

The rejected gift consisted of two magnificent diamond-back terrapins, brought by a fisherman with the announcement that he thought the finest in the Chesapeake Bay were none too good for Billy.

"These are for Mr. Sunday," he said rapturously, as he uncovered one of Maryland's most renowned delicacies.

Mrs. Foutts sank back. She shuddered. Then she took a second look and said:

"Take the reptiles away. I am sure Mr. Sunday wouldn't eat them. Anyway, I couldn't disturb him now."

The fisherman looked crestfallen. He muttered something to himself and slowly went away.

It is doubted that Mrs. Foutts had ever seen a diamond back before.

Asks Grand Jury to Get Facts on City 'Ice Trust'

Mayor Curley today asked District Attorney Pelletier to start a grand jury investigation to ascertain if an ice trust exists in the city.

This action was brought about by the sudden jump in prices, when bids for furnishing ice to the City Hospital were opened this week. Last year ice was furnished to the hospital for $3.10 a ton. When the bids were opened this year there was only one bidder and the price was $4 a ton. The Mayor ordered the bids readvertised. This time there were two bidders. They were the Independent Ice Co., $4 a ton, and the Boston Ice Co., $4.49 a ton. The Mayor today ordered both bids rejected.

ENGINE BLOWS UP AT PORTLAND, 4 HURT

Portland, Me., March 3.—A huge Grand Trunk Railway locomotive was wrecked at East Deering, just outside of this city, early today, when the air pressure tank exploded.

The men hurt are:

George Newton of Portland, steamfitter, arm and leg broken, sent to Maine General Hospital.

J. T. Noyes of Portland, engineer, body cut, ankle sprained.

E. H. Stevens, No. 611 Verandah street, East Deering, yardman, cuts on head, face and body.

Harland L. Damon of South Paris, fireman, face and body cuts.

All four men were given immediate medical aid, but Newton was the only one taken to the hospital. The other three men were rushed to their homes. Newton's condition was considered serious early today, but physicians thought he would recover.

The locomotive was standing in the round house at the time of the explosion.

Newton and Stevens narrowly escaped having the heavy boiler crash on top of them. The engineer and fireman were blown across the room and up against the roundhouse wall.

ONTANEDA IS FREED AFTER FORCED STAY

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., March 3.—The Norwegian steamer Ontaneda, which, because of Admiralty suspicions that she was engaged in contraband traffic, has been forced to lie at this port six weeks without coal, has resumed her voyage. This was made possible through compliance with an order for security for the good conduct of the ship as a condition of obtaining the coal required to allow her to reach Wilmington, Del.

CHEWING GUM KILLS SIX-YEAR-OLD BOY

HELP HOME FOR 'LOST' GIRLS

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

The youth of twenty who is accused of Marian Lambert's death boasted that he could win any girl's confidence in a short time. He made a wager that he could be introduced to any young girl at a certain party where he was a guest and in fifteen minutes' time induce her to take him into a secluded room and sit alone with him on the divan.

He was introduced to an especially prudent young miss, but he won his bet. No doubt the girl fancied she had made a conquest of a popular youth, and that all the other girls were envying her the marked attention he bestowed upon her.

This is precisely what is happening every day in every village, town and country place in America. Silly girls strive for the attention of men and imagine they are all-conquering belles when they obtain the man's favor. It never enters their self-centered minds that the man is either laughing to himself over an easy conquest or boasting of it to other men.

The tragedy of Marian Lambert's life will cause a few girls to pause and be prudent for a little while, but it will soon wear away and the same old follies and tragedies will continue to take place.

ONE WOMAN'S SAD STORY.

A sadly interesting letter comes from a young woman only twenty-three who has passed through the dark waters of shame and sorrow. An attractive young man, met in social circles, began to make ardent protestations of affection. He won her promise of marriage, but no time was set; then, because of obstacles in the way of his marriage, he began to urge her to be his wife before the law pronounced her so. He finally succeeded in his designs by declaring that he should be obliged to leave her unless she gave him this proof of her trust and affection.

A few months later she was driven from her home by her father because of her approaching maternity. She threw herself upon the mercy of her betrayer, who gave her shelter and care for a few months and then deserted her, leaving her with only a few dollars in her purse. Her child was born in a public institution and the girl is now making desperate endeavors to support herself and infant. The lover she discovered to her horror, was already a married man with a wife and two children.

This is but one of hundreds of similar cases. Shame, disgrace or death follow in the track of every girl who trusts the word of a man and sacrifices her self respect at his bidding.

REAL HELP FOR SUFFERERS.

Together with many letters of this nature comes one from Mrs. Clara S. Capp of St. Faith's House, No. 55 South Broadway, Tarrytown-on-the-Hudson. She says:

"I feel that you may at this time be glad to hear of a little work which has been carried on for fifteen years for girls who have taken their first wrong step. The founders believe firmly in the need of classification, and that these young girls should not be in a home which receives all sorts of girls without distinction. Only about twenty girls can be cared for with their babies, and the average age of last year's girl was seventeen years.

"This work was commenced by two women who are still workers in charge and who have given their time and talents without salary. They have cared for a sad procession of girls, trained them and started them out, with their babies, to face the battle of life. Just now they are daily expecting the birth of a child to a young high school girl. Her betrayer committed suicide; her parents' home is closed to her and a kind friend sent her to St. Faith's House."

Mrs. Capp adds: "A home like this for girls under sixteen is an urgent necessity just now. Our work has a struggle for existence. If we can raise $2,500 before July our house will be free from debt and we can keep it open for those unfortunate cases which constantly occur."

PHILANTHROPISTS' OPPORTUNITY.

Surely this is a great opportunity for philanthropic men and women to do good. St. Faith's Home should be liberally assisted. The good women in charge help to save these young mothers from suicide and from the street, and they help to educate and guide them to be good mothers.

Leonardo da Vinci, George William Childs, Stephen Girard were all great, good men, and they were little waif children born of unmarried mothers. Some of these children in in St. Faith's Home may be good and great citizens if their mothers are assisted to give them the right care and guidance.

Help Mrs. Capp with her worthy work.

HENRY JAMES MAY BE BURIED IN ABBEY

By International News Service.

London, March 3.—The Manchester Guardian states that both Premier Asquith and the Dean of Westminster Abbey are in favor of burying Henry James, the novelist, who died on Monday, in Westminster Abbey, but the family prefer to have the services in the Chelsea Old Church.

The newspaper adds that a formal offer of interment in the Abbey should be made in order that the authorities may thus show the nation's appreciation of the writer. Several other newspapers also print articles in favor of interring the novelist in the burial place of England's greatest men.

URGES BUSINESS MEN TO BE PREPARED

"Preparedness for war is a business proposition and it is every man's business," said Adjutant-General Cole of the State militia, addressing 250 members and guests of the Waltham Board of Trade in Rocke Hall, Waltham.

General Cole urged that all business men strive for non-political organization of the nation against war that might come upon it and blamed the military historians largely for American unpreparedness, past and present. Militia companies, he said, should have a waiting list rather than vacancies in their ranks.

DENIES GUILT IN BAD BOND DEAL

William Harrison, alias William F. Fray and "Count" Delaney, pleaded not guilty in the Superior Court to two indictments charging him with larceny of $3,422.67 from Wesley A. Gore and conspiracy to steal. It is alleged that Harrison, with Allen H. MacKenzie, secured the money by means of worthless bonds. MacKenzie was sentenced to two years in the House of Correction and released on parole. The larceny is alleged to have been committed in 1911.

'POVERTY' PLEA BY HOLLIS

Concord, N. H., March 3.—Declaring that his debts eat $1,288 annually to live on while he is forced to exist on a base $622.71, United States Senator Henry F. Hollis petitioned the Supreme Court at Concord to modify the separation decree granted to his wife by that tribunal.

Senator Hollis says his net income is $5,932.71 a year, out of which he is forced to pay his former wife, Mrs. Grace Fisher Hollis of Princeton, N. J., $4,260 a year. Ann Hollis, Senator Hollis' daughter, lives with her mother, and Henry F. Hollis, Jr., is a student at Cornell.

Mrs. Hollis sued for a legal separation last December, and Judge Branch in the Supreme Court granted her decree, and ordered the Senator to pay alimony of $300 a month, and a lump sum of $5,000. In his petition filed today Senator Hollis declares that his total resources are $1,738.50, and he says he owes $2,000 to a Concord bank on a note.

The continued payment of this exorbitant allowance, says the Senator, will mean bankruptcy for him. He claims that he cannot possibly live in Washington as a United States Senator for less than $7,000 a year. He says to dispose of his property with his notes outstanding will mean a dishonorable act, and therefore asks that the allowance be cut.

Senator Hollis in his petition says he has made no will, and points out that his wife will get one-third of his property and insurance at the time of his death. He says:

"The amount was fixed while I was practicing law. I made more at that than I am making as United States Senator."

MYSTERY SHIP OFF VIRGINIA CAPES

New York, March 3.—News of a mysterious ship believed to be a German tanker, encountered off the Virginia Capes was brought to this port today by Captain Munkovitz of the Gulf Insular liner Gravesna from Porto Rico. Early yesterday Munkovitz, as he was off Hampton Roads, saw two mysterious white lights. They apparently were signaling. He could make nothing out of their wig-wags and flashes, but he said that every time he changed his course, the lights flashed. The captain saw no vessel, but on the previous voyage of the Gravesna, he says, a mysterious vessel crossed his bows and immediately signaled with a flashing light in Morse, to another light.

Newton and Captain Commandant E. P. Bertholf of the Coast Guard. It is proposed that expert aviators patrol the entire coast line looking for ships in distress.

PIERCE FRENCH LINES NEAR VERDUN

section, but still occupy some parts of the bastion. South of the La Bassee Canal mines were exploded.

"There was lively fighting at close quarters. In Champagne, the enemy artillery increased its activity. In Bolante wood, northeast of LaChalade, in the Argonne region, a French attack was repulsed.

CLEAR DOUAUMONT.

"On the heights of the east bank of the Meuse river after artillery preparation we cleared the village of Douaumont of the enemy extending our lines west and south of the village and also extending our lines at Fort Douaumont to a more favorable position. More than one thousand prisoners were taken.

"Our airmen dropped bombs in the vicinity of the fortress of Verdun. East of Douai, Lieut. Immelman, the famous German aviator, shot down an English biplane. One of the occupants was killed and the other wounded.

"East front.—On the Duenaburg River (Dvina), east of Friedrichstadt, patrol engagements occurred. There were similar engagements on the Sereth-Schtschara front.

"Balkan front.—There is nothing to report."

The text of the French communique follows:

"To the north of Verdun, the bombardment and the attacks of the enemy have continued throughout the whole night. The fighting is going on with redoubled violence in the sector of the village of Douaumont.

"After several attempts, which were all repulsed with cruel losses, the Germans succeeded in penetrating our advanced line in the village of Douaumont, where the combat continues furiously.

"To the east of the village of Vaux, German attacks were launched at about the same hour.

"Assaults directed from the north and northeast have broken down under our gunfire and by the fire of our machine guns.

OBLIGED TO RETIRE.

"The enemy has been obliged to retire, leaving amidst our barbed wire entanglements a large number of dead.

"In the Woevre plain (between the Meuse and Moselle rivers) toward the end of the evening the bombardment has invariably become extremely heavy but we have always been successful in checking it.

"To the west of the Meuse River the enemy's artillery has been very active at night.

"In the region of Malancourt, in Haucourt-Lorraine and south of the forest of Parroy, feeble attacks by the enemy have been dispersed by our fire and our hand grenade throwers."

The Kaiser is reported to have informed the German General Staff that the fortress of Verdun must be taken at any cost and that he will not countenance any failure for any reason whatever.

In an effort to divert the German lines north and east of Verdun the British have begun a series of attacks around Ypres and are carrying out a violent bombardment of the German positions.

German counter-attacks on the Ypres fronts, which were made in an endeavor to win back the hundred yards of trenches taken by British, ended in failure.

French military experts are practically a unit in saying that the long period of inactivity which rested upon the West front is now at an end and fierce fighting will be seen at some point or another from now on. They point out that the ammunition supplies of the allies are now so great that they could keep up a moderate offensive indefinitely all along the front.

BIG DRAIN ON GERMANY.

On the other hand the Germans, because of the big drains on their ammunition supply to meet the demands of Austria, Turkey and Bulgaria, are compelled to mass munitions at some particular point if an offensive movement is contemplated.

In the eleven days of fighting the Teutons have won 457 square miles of territory. They have driven the French from their field fortifications north of Verdun and have cleared the entire plain of the Woevre, hurling the defenders back to the forts on the chain of crests known as the heights of the Meuse.

These forts are now under terrific bombardment, not only from the 12-inch and 17-inch German howitzer, but also from the famous "Big Berthas." These great .42 centimetre guns are mounted as far as fifteen miles back of the battlefront, according to dispatches. A well-placed shot from one is enough to reduce the most modern fort to twisted ruins.

So far, dispatches from Berlin insist, the German losses have not been severe. French estimates set them at from 120,000 to 150,000.

WAR SUMMARY

New activity today developed in the Verdun region, with the Germans resuming their attacks. The French official bulletin reports German attacks directed toward Douaumont, where a group of some 2,000 Germans, who originally captured the fortress, are now beleaguered by the French.

These attacks succeeded in penetrating the French line, Paris admits, in Douaumont village, east of the fortress. The German official bulletin says 1,000 French were captured here, and that considerable territory changed hands.

A still more vigorous attack was launched, Paris says, from the Woevre plains against Fort Vaux. The French bulletin says these attacks "started at about the same hour" as the Douaumont attacks, but drops the subject without stating their result.

An attack on this fort and from this angle offers the Germans considerable advantage, as their guns to the northward can rake the defending entrenchments with a flank fire.

The battle line now runs roughly east and west from a point on the Meuse three and a half miles above Verdun to the Hardaumont wood, east of Douaumont. There it turns southward and runs along the base of the Meuse Heights, at an approximate right angle. The position is advantageous for a German attack.

Of even more importance than the Verdun operations, events may prove, was the British attack in Flanders, near Ypres. The British should have attacked here a week ago, to weaken the German drive at Verdun by calling reinforcements to strengthen the attacked line in Flanders. That an attack was not made before this by the British is believed to be an indication of the unreadiness of the British troops for aggressive action.

Now, however, the attack has begun. If it is pushed home its effect should be noted at Verdun very quickly.

It is not impossible that out of the German attack on Verdun may develop within the next month a concerted attempt on the part of the allies to drive the Germans back along the whole line. Two or three months of fighting approaching that about Verdun in intensity might end the war and doubtless leave both sides exhausted and bloodless.

One thing the German attack has proved—that France has no available reserves in men not already stationed along the battle line. For when reinforcements went to Verdun they had to be drawn from the line in Flanders, where British troops took their place.

Not the lease splendid chapter in this war is that which deals with the heroism of the French, and the efficiency of their defence.

Saw Germans Die in Heaps in Charge

Special to International News Service and London Daily News.

Paris, March 3.—A wounded officer, describing the desperate fighting of Monday night around Douaumont village, says:

"The Germans attacked the village eight times in succession, but were beaten back by two French regiments. [illegible] attacks were defeated by machine guns and 75's, but after mid[illegible] the men of the guard and the Fifteenth Corps returned even more doggedly, no longer in closed formation.

"They advanced as if on parade to within twenty yards of the French defences; then they rushed forward. The leading ranks were mown down by machine guns. Then the French commander cried:

"'Fix bayonets! Charge!'

"A terrific hand-to-hand struggle followed in the darkness. A Prussian non-commissioned officer was afterwards found with his breast pierced by a German bayonet. A German company in the melee charged a section advancing to its support.

GERMAN BODIES LAY IN HEAPS.

"Not until daybreak did the struggle end. At the entrance to the village German corpses lay in heaps with the wounded whom it had been impossible to rescue."

Another grim mining episode, the heroes of which were three wounded "poilus," occurred on the outskirts of the Vauche wood. The story is told by one of the trio:

"Bernard, Jean and myself were ordered to prepare a mine directly the Germans came our way. When the storm of shells began to abate we started with electric lamps, picks and powder fuses, through a long sap, at the end of which we were to lay the mine in an excavation already prepared.

"We did our work and went back. We had not proceeded far when a frightful explosion shook the earth. We sprang forward. The outlet was blocked with stones, and we were doomed. A shell had burst over our gallery and choked it with earth and stones. Jean cried out:

BURIED UNDER CORPSES.

"'Our doom is sealed! What's the good of waiting to die by starvation?'

"He pulled out his revolver. I caught his arm.

"'You are mad,' I said. 'Let's wait till the mine explodes. If the crater is deep we may reach it.'

"We waited, crouching and listening to the roar of the battle overhead. At last our mine exploded.

"In spite of the stifling heat we returned to our barrier. I squeezed into the mine. I felt moisture trickling through. It was blood.

"Like furies we began to scratch away the soil with our hands. Presently a fresh horror confronted us. A barrier of corpses lay between us and salvation. We had struck the crater formed by the explosion.

"Working like demons all the time, we burrowed through this inferno till we reached the blessed light. There we lay in the crater eight hours till stretcher-bearers reached us."

RUSSIANS TAKE MORE TURKISH CANNON

London, March 3.—The fighting reported today from Eastern Europe and Asia, while of notable importance in the probable effect on the war as a whole, receives little attention, because of the greater interest in the tremendous battles in the western war theatre.

Germany and Russia both announce heavy artillery actions in Russia's European war theatre. Neither claims any change in position. Both assert considerable damage to the enemy. Russia announces repulses of repeated Austrian infantry attacks in the middle Stripa region.

The German airships have been making many raids into Russia, but details are not given.

The situation remains unchanged on the Austro-Italian front. Italy announces that her artillery has inflicted much damage on the enemy, and tells of stormy weather in the Isonzo region.

The only news of the warfare in Asia is a Russian official statement, as follows:

"Caucasus front: In the direction of Erzingian (southwest of Erzerum), the Turks continue their retreat. Here our cavalry has found four guns abandoned by the Turks. In the direction of Bitlis, the enemy continues his retreat under the pressure of our troops. We have occupied Kamalk and Nekavank convent, seven miles northeast of Bitlis."

SUMMERALL LAUDS YALE'S BATTERY

New Haven, Ct., March 3.—A letter received here from Major C. P. Summerall, chief of the field artillery at Washington, who has been inspecting the Yale battery, says the government had issued nearly half a million dollars' worth of equipment for the Yale men, and that the latter were doing things in the preparedness line while other young men were standing around talking. He urged the Yale undergraduates not to take any stock in the opposition movement, and to live up to their reputation as no quitters.

Britain Not Implicated.

Honolulu, March 3.—No evidence has been obtained that the British government is implicated in the alleged recruiting plot in which three arrests were made Sunday, according to Horace Vaughn, United States district attorney.

Says Officers Helped Germans Leave Canada

Ottawa, March 3.—The charge that a commanding officer of a guard had aided in the escape of German prisoners from the prison camp at Amherst, N. S., was made in the Senate here by Senator Clorin of Montreal. He asked for documents relative to the escape and the court martial at Halifax.

"It was bad enough," Senator Clorin said, "to send our own flesh and blood to fight the enemy in a foreign country, without being betrayed at home."

Bulgaria Now Makes Seizure of Foodstuffs

Special to International News Service and London Times.

Salonica, March 3.—The Bulgarian government has issued orders requisitioning all foodstuffs remaining in private hands throughout the country.

It is stated that after making provision for local needs until the next harvest, the government will place the residue, if any, at the disposal of Germany and Austria.

EX-MINISTER HANOTAUX SAYS THE KAISER IS NOW AT BAY

By GABRIEL HANOTAUX.

Former French Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Paris, March 3.—With their Verdun offensive the Germans are taking up their campaign agianst France just where they left off at the battle of Marne.

Verdun is the apex of those Eastern citadels which have always shackled the German offensive through Belgium, and until that apex is smashed an attack towards the interior, of France is exposed to being bitten off by our Eastern jaws. Any attack on Paris is taken in the rear by our armies about those fortresses.

I do not know whether it is true that General von Deimling told the Fifteenth Cossacks that this was to be the last anti-French offensive, but true or untrue, the assertion expresses an exact verity.

Germany has arrived at that point where she is bound to make up her mind to use her remaining sources. I learn from the most reliable source that during the last visit of the King of Saxony to his troops the officers surrounded him and told him the war must be quickly finished and that the soldiers would be unable to undertake a new campaign.

It is noteworthy that the troops who made the greatest sacrifices at Verdun were Prussians. The Prussians are naturally the supreme champions of Prussian militarism. Verdun has capital importance regarded from the viewpoint of the whole situation.

Conservative organs in Germany are clamoring for the displacement of Von Bethmann-Hollweg and the appointment of a chancellor belonging to the militarist party, such as Von Hindenberg or Von Tirpitz. German militarism is now seeking to defend itself with its own men.

The Kaiser is at bay and has to save the country and himself. At a recent Potsdam council he obtained the opinions of Hindenburg, Mackensen, Haesseler and Deimling on the situation.

The German chiefs saw the Russian front consolidated, the Czar's armies reconstituted and assuming a victorious offensive at different points. German effort in this theatre would lead nowhere.

In the Balkans Germany would only be working for the benefit of the Bulgarians, who are unable to make a fresh effort for themselves.

RESOLVED TO DIE.

In the direction of Egypt and Asia the game was up. Through the capture of Erzerum, Turkey had already become a dead weight.

Thus Germany was forced to look toward France.

True, the Republican army was powerful, valorous and resolved to die where it stood rather than give up the struggle. Its artillery and ammunitions were a hundred times superior to what they were when it repulsed the furious German attacks at the Yser. These considerations militated against the mad blow.

But the blow had to be delivered somewhere before Spring should bring the new Russian and British armies into line, before the Austro-German powers should undergo further decline, before the peoples should lose courage and the spirit of resistance—before the allies should really begin to smash Prussian militarism.

The King of Saxony reported to the Kaiser the pressure which his own troops were bringing to bear upon him. The confederate States were beginning to get restless. Therefore the Kaiser ordered an offensive on the French front.

Every hour, every minute decides the result of this last desperate gambler's throw. The Kaiser stands involved not only before history but before his own people. He continues to lend his people to butchery. To save himself he orders a supreme massacre.

But the hour has struck. Verdun brings no luck to the Prussian dynasty.

To von Deimling's alleged assertion that this is the last offensive, I will add the statement recently made to me by one of our greatest leaders:

"It is better so. Let them attack. We are ready for them."

Gambler's Last Throw at Verdun, Says Hanotaux

Soldier's Twenty Wives Are Given War Allowance

By International News Service.

Petrograd, March 3.—The problem of separation allowances to the multitudinous wives of Mohammedan soldiers has presented itself to the Russian government, which has long been considering whethtr a monthly allowance is to be paid to all the wives or only the "favorite."

In such cases it has finally been decided that each wife is entitled to pay, which means a considerable addition to the army budget, as some of the soldiers have as many as twenty wives.

BRITISH FINALLY RELEASE AMERICAN

London, March 3.—Ulric Parker of Brownsville, Tex., who has been interned since last June, near Edinburgh, has been ordered released by the British government. Parker was mate of the schooner Gypsum Empress, which called at Greenock, where Parker went ashore, was arrested as a German, and sent to the detention camp.

CHARGE GERMAN PLOT AGAINST WOMEN

By International News Service.

New York, March 3.—Federal authorities are quietly investigating an alleged campaign on the part of German sympathizers to intimidate prominent women engaged in war relief work for the allies.

The investigation came as the result of threatening letters received by Mrs. S. Barton French and Mrs. Nina L. Duryea. Other well known women have also received letters of the same sort. Believing it a hoax, however, they have refused to let their names become public.

Mrs. French received two letters. She threw them in the waste basket. But when she received a mysterious midnight telephone call from a man of unmistakable German lineage, she said she realized the matter was more than a joke.

"I was moved to greater concern when the man showed by his conversation over the telephone that he has intimate knowledge of my comings and goings," said Mrs. French. "He didn't speak like a crank, but appeared to be polished in manner and voice.

"Unless I gave up my relief work I would be tabulated, he told me. He laid great stress on the word 'tabulated.' I am at a loss to understand what he meant.

"This happened in a hotel where I stopped up to a few weeks ago. It soon became apparent that I was being shadowed. Finally, the situation became so embarrassing that I moved to the Vanderbilt Hotel. Since then I have not been bothered."

Mrs. Duryea received two letters about the time that Mrs. French received the letters. She was warned not to be so outspoken about the Germans. Unless she kept her opinions to herself, the writer said, she, too, would be tabulated.

Soon after this Mrs. Duryea was stopped on the street by a German who persisted in reiterating the threats about tabulation. When Mrs. Duryea threatened to call a policeman he hastily disappeared.

BRITISH M. P., NOW IN U. S., RESIGNS

By International News Service.

London, March 3.—Francis Neilson, M. P., who is at present lecturing in America, has resigned from Parliament, according to an announcement by the Central News.

Francis Neilson is the author of numerous plays, librettos and short stories. Since he has been in the United States he has delivered lectures in New York, Worcester and other places. In his New York lecture he accused the House of Lords of blocking proposed laws to tax land owners of England instead of workers and also attacked the brewing interests at home.

In Worcester Mr. Neilson spoke on "Democracy in Great Britain." He has always been an ardent single taxer. He married an American woman.

ENGLAND IS UNDER CONSCRIPTION ACT

London, March 3.—The government's conscription act has gone into effect and machinery has been set in motion for its enforcement. Large proclamations are posted all over England, announcing that henceforth all bachelors and widowers eligible under the act will be regarded as soldiers and drafted as needed. The first nine groups, it was stated, will be called up by March 15.

Married men between the ages of nineteen and twenty-seven attested under the Derby recruiting campaign will be called up for service within a few days, it was announced.

TELEGRAPH LINES IN PERSIA ARE CUT

New York, March 3.—The Commercial Cable Company has announced that the Persian telegraph lines between Kermanshah and Teheran are interrupted.

The company also announces that the information has been received from the Central Telegraph Office of Russia that service cablegrams seeking information about the delivery or transmission of cablegrams would be no longer admitted to Russia and that no consideration would be given to claims or requests for information.

NO NEW VICTIMS IN U-BOAT WARFARE

London, March 3.—No new victims have been reported during the past twelve hours in U-boat warfare. The Thornaby, reported lost in the North Sea as the first victim under the Kaiser's new edict, is now said by Lloyd's agent at Blythe to have been sunk by a mine.

Early dispatches Thursday announced the sinking of four fishing smacks, the Italian steamer Elisa and the French mine sweeper Au Revoir.

WILL BAN GERMAN IMPORTS AFTER WAR

London, March 3.—The Daily News learns that the inner circle of the Cabinet will recommend the incorporation in the budget of an announcement that German imports will be prohibited after the war and also that measures will be taken, probably in the nature of preferential duties, for the purpose of encouraging exports from the British colonies to the countries of the allies.

FEARS SON GONE TO JOIN BRITISH

Roxbury Girls Furnish Alibi for Son Arrested in Death Mystery

police that on the murder night he saw

Roper get on a Boston-bound trolley a James street crossing in Tewsbury, the earest trolley point to the Roper house. This was at 9:35.

The elder Roper was alive at 9 o'clock that night in the boiler shed of his greenhouse, according to the story told by the second son, Arthur, who said he found the body in one of the greenhouse aisles about an hour later.

Today a colored man, whose name the Lowell police are withholding, came to the station house and identified Roper as a man whom he saw on that 9:35 car on the murder night. The colored man said he boarded the car at Chandler's Crossing, the next stop beyond James street crossing, on the way to Boston. That made two witnesses who said they saw Roper on that Boston-bound car, Harnden and the colored man.

SECURE WARRANT.

Today also, Timothy Mack, a conductor of the trolley which arrived from Boston at Tewksbury at 7:35 the murder night, came to the station and identified Roper as a passenger on his car, who got off at Chandler's Crossing. Thus the police held that they had Roper literally coming to and going from Tewksbury on the night he said he was in Boston. On this evidence they secured a warrant.

It was reported from Lowell earlier that the police were baffled by the apparent strength of Roper's Roxbury alibi.

Dorothy Fox, a thirteen-year-old girl, and her sister Edna, eight, positively declared today that Albert J. Roper was in the house with them all the evening of the murder.

These children, daughters of Mrs. Jessie Fox, of No. 16 Wait street, Roxbury, with whom young Roper boarded since his quarrel with his father, February 21, are certain that the new boarder not only was in the house with them all during the evening but that at about the time that the body of the murder victim was found young Roper was shaking the furnace in their house in Roxbury.

They also declare that the new boarder first learned of the murder from a newpaper, the morning afterward, and that he was greatly cast down, and hurried at once to a telephone pay-station to telephone to Tewksbury, to his father's home.

He arrived in Tewksbury on the trolley car at 6:30 last night, and was immediately taken into custody by the Lowell police officials who are sparing no effort to solve the mystery of the brutal murder of the florist, his father.

Although Roper was carefully searched, no trace was found of the missing wallet and the large sum of money it was thought to have contained, which was taken from the pocket of the vest of the murdered man.

Albert Roper, Jr., according to Mrs. Fox, his landlady, met her at the New Richwood Hotel, where she is employed, and escorted her home, arriving at the Wait street house in Roxbury at a moment or two after midnight. This would not have been possible had young Roper been in Lowell at the time police witnesses there say they saw him.

But according to the children of Mrs. Fox, and another tenant of the house in Wait street, Roper was at work on the furnace, at about 9 o'clock, and did not leave the house again until he started to Boston to meet Mrs. Fox.

IN ROXBURY ALL EVENING.

Dorothy Fox, thirteen, who is positive about the movements of Albert Roper, even after he had fixed the furnace, declared today:

"Mr. Roper was in the house all that day. He was here when I went to school in the morning and was here when I returned at noon and in the afternoon. He remained in the house after I got home from school in the afternoon until evening.

"To the best of my recollection it was between eight and nine when Mr. Roper went to the cellar to put coal in the furnace. A little while later he went to the store at the corner. He returned a short time later. It was some time after that that he left the house to go to Boston to meet my mother and return with her. I heard mother and Mr. Roper when they came into the house."

Edna Fox, her eight-year-old sister said:

"Mr. Roper was here that night and went to the furnace at about nine o'clock. I remember distinctly."

Edward Tinilty, nine years, who lives on the second floor of the Wait street house, was in the cellar at the time Roper attended to the Fox furnace. He did not speak to Roper, but thought that the time was nearly nine o'clock.

CORROBORATE ALIBI.

Miss Florence Elliott, another resident of the house, fixes the time of this visit to the furnace at nearly 9 o'clock. She heard Roper's footsteps as he went downstairs to the cellar. It was at 9 o'clock that she usually covers her pet birds and it was while she was doing this that she heard Roper.

Miss Elliott is the step-daughter of Maurice Vandenburghe, head waiter at the Winter Place Hotel, where Roper senior usually ate when in Boston.

It was investigation of the alibi claimed by young Roper that disclosed the fact that it was at the Wait street house that the report started that Roper, senior, had died a week before his murder.

When Mrs. Vandenburghe died, Mr. Roper sent a floral tribute. Accordingly, when Mr. Vandenburghe heard that Mr. Roper was dead, he ordered flowers sent to Tewksbury. Mr. Vandenburghe said that he gathered the wrong impression of Roper's death from something that he had heard Albert, then just arrived as a boarder, say at the Wait street home. Just why Albert had allowed this wrong impression to stand, he could not say.

Mrs. Fox, Roper's landlday, is employed as a waitress at the New Richwood. She declared that Roper had lodged at her house since February 21. Prior to that he had lived there practically all Summer until the Fall, when he had returned to Tewksbury.

Roper had been married to a nurse and had one child, who was living with its grandparents. Mrs. Fox was of the belief that he had been divorced and that his former wife was now a nurse in the State asylum at Westboro.

"I cannot understand why they connect Bert Roper with the murder of his father," said Mrs. Fox. "He loved his father, and even when he lost his position as salesman at the flower market he did not blame his father. Recently he was taken back and had every reason to believe he would soon have his old position back.

MET HIM AT 11:05 P. M.

"I did not see Mr. Roper when I left home Wednesday afternoon," continued Mrs. Fox. "In fact, I didn't see him at all during the afternon, but I have distinct recollections of what happened in the evening. One of the hotel patrons who knew Mr. Roper and myself and are friendly, came in and joked with me about Mr. Roper. Then, shortly before 11, Mr. Roper came in himself, had some refreshments and then waited outside until I had finished. That was, I should say, about 11:05. We then went home together.

"The first knowledge Mr. Roper had of the death of his father was this forenoon. It was between 9 and 10, I should say, when Miss Elliott came downstairs to my apartment and showed us the story of the murder of the elder Roper. Bert was stunned, but he went out and telephoned home, and then left for Tewksbury. That is all I know of the affair, except that when I got home Wednesday night I found the playing cards as they had been left by Mr. Roper and my daughter Dot."

MAY TRY SIEGEL ON NEW CHARGE

By International News Service.

New York, March 3.—Henry Siegel may be prosecuted on a new indictment charging forgery according to a statement by District Attorney Swann.

Mr. Swann said there was an abundance of evidence to show alterations in the books used in the Siegel business, and that such changes probably constituted forgery in the third degree.

Mr. Swann and his assistants will be three weeks in examining the records of the former trial and looking over the banker's books to determine positively whether or not the new issue which he has in mind was testified to at the trial. If it was, then the District Attorney says he will have to be bound by the agreements of Messrs. Whitman and Perkins.

Hot Water for Sick Headaches

Tells why everyone should drink hot water with phosphate in it before breakfast.

Headache of any kind is caused by auto-intoxication—which means self-poisoning. Liver and bowel poisons called toxins, sucked into the blood, through the lymph ducts, excite the heart, which pumps the blood so fast that it congests in the smaller arteries and veins of the head, producing violent, throbbing pain and distress, called headache. You become nervous, despondent, sick, feverish and miserable, your meals sour and almost nauseate you. Then you resort to acetanilide, aspirin or the bromides which temporarily relieve, but do not rid the blood of these irritating toxins.

A glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, drank before breakfast for awhile, will not only wash these poisons from your system and cure you of headache, but will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary canal.

Ask your pharmacist for a quarter pound of limestone phosphate. It is inexpensive, harmless as sugar, and almost tasteless, except for a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant.

If you aren't feeling your best, if tongue is coated or you wake up with bad taste, foul breath or have colds, indigestion, biliousness, constipation or sour, acid stomach, begin the phosphated hot water cure to rid your system of toxins and poisons.

Results are quick, and it is claimed that those who continue to flush out the stomach, liver and bowels every morning never have any headache or know a miserable moment.—Advertisement.

BABY TO RULE IN BOSTON FOR WEEK BEGINNING TOMORROW

Babies!
Boston Babies!
Better Boston Babies!
Better, Bigger, Boston Babies!

This is the slogan for Babies' Week, which begins tomorrow evening and continues for seven days, during which the city is to be "governed, controlled and dominated" by citizens under one year of age.

It has been decreed by the Children's National Bureau, and by other agencies whose interest in children is nation-wide, that seven days be given to the consideration of the birth and care of infants.

Cities and towns from the Atlantic to the Pacific will devote time and energy toward educating themselves as to the best way to make a perfect physical child.

Boston will not be behind in its program and in its interest. Already this city boasts a comparatively low death rate among babies, and the figures for 1915 show that but 104 infants under one year of age died out of every 1,000 born.

While this is yet far too high and below figures attained in Australia and a few other countries, it is far better than the majority of American cities can boast of. It is also good when compared with the Boston figures of 1910, which were 127 for every 1,000 born.

Today there are a dozen or more societies and institutions where the pre-natal care, the sickness and the post-natal care and feeding of babies are made subjects for specialists.

The Milk and Baby Hygiene Association is the organization which does more than any other to oversee the feeding of babies in Boston. It has twelve stations in the city, where nearly 5,000 of Boston's 20,000 yearly babies become charges of nurses and physicians.

One thousand sick babies are cared for on the Boston Floating Hospital during the Summer months.

DAZZLING DISPLAY OF AUTOS AWAITS YOU AT BOSTON SHOW

They describe it as the greatest display of automobiles ever assembled under one roof in America.

It is the fourteenth annual Boston Automobile Show and it will open in Mechanics Building on Huntington avenue tomorrow afternoon. It will run through next week.

The advance Saturday openings of the Boston auto show have become famous. It is the regular thing now for the public to jam in there by the thousands.

Chester I. Campbell, manager of the show, figures that 300,000 persons will see the 1916 display before it closes.

This year there will me 440 models of pleasure and commercial motor vehicles, comprising 107 makes. Also there will be everything in the accessory line from road maps up.

SHOW SCENE OF BEAUTY.

The Boston Automobile Show is getting as particular as a woman of fashion about what clothes it wears—meaning decorations.

The vehicles themselves, new and shiny, with all their different colors, are as pretty as can be.

But that isn't enough in these decorative days. The show halls must be "dolled up," as the expression goes, as though a royal reception were to be held.

For that matter, auto enthusiasts say the motor show is a reception extraordinary, given by the king of vehicles to his admiring subjects.

Anyhow, the decorations are expected to dazzle the public.

For intance, more than fifty tons of crystal pendants will glitter under the vari-colored light from thousands and thousands of electric bulbs.

The general motif of the decorative scheme is Renaissance, brought down to modern times. Earnest W. Campbell is the artist-architect.

200,000 PENDANTS USED.

The proscenium arch in Grand Hall has a span of 150 feet. A floral screen is pierced with delicate branches, leaves and flowers, dainty and Spring-like in coloring. The same motif is carried out on all brackets and truss-work.

The stage setting is treated in black and gold vertical panels, with a wrought iron entrance to a garden scene.

The main floor decoration is typical of the auto industry. Eight vertical antique columns form a resting place for several finely modeled figures of heroic size which support a great auto wheel. The figures represent Industry, Progress, Invention and Success. Above all is a figure of Prosperity, with overflowing cornucopia. The wheel tire and spokes and the cornucopia are fitted with hundreds of electric lights.

The Exhibition Hall promenade is arched over in crystal. More than 200,000 pendants, illuminated with electric lights, are used. The entire length, from entrance to main stairway, is spanned by ten curving arches. Supporting columns in black and white are crowned with gold Cupids holding illuminated birds.

CARS OF EVERY MAKE.

This is a general discription of the decorative effect. No attempt here at detail.

Picture such a wealth of decoration, used merely as a setting for the autos themselves.

Picture the place filled with hugely interested people, looking at cars, peering into the inner works of the vehicles, admiring the decorations, chattering "auto stuff," and having an automobile of a time generally.

The Greater Boston girl, in all her varied and bewildering styles and charms and graces, is always on deck at the auto show.

The salesmen, those smooth "devils," who talk so cleverly, will show all kinds of cars, from $300 runabouts up to $15,000 luxuries.

But you don't have to buy, of course. But then, again, you might wish to buy.

Anyhow, several thousands of us will be there tomorrow, or some time next week.

TO REMOVE DANDRUFF

Get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store, pour a little into your hand and rub well into the scalp with the finger tips. By morning most, if not all, of this awful scurf will have disappeared. Two or three applications will destroy every bit of dandruff; stop scalp itching and falling hair.—Advertisement.

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK, CROSS, FEVERISH

Hurry, Mother! Remove poisons from little stomach, liver, bowels.

Give "California Syrup of Figs" at once if bilious or constipated.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad, has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative"; they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt. —Advertisement.

RESINOL
RESINOL SOAP FOR THE SKIN AND COMPLEXION

Sick skins made well by Resinol

No matter how long you have been tortured and disfigured by itching, burning, raw or scaly skin humors, just put a little of that soothing Resinol Ointment on the sores and see if the suffering does not stop right there! Healing usually begins that very minute, and the skin gets well quickly and easily, unless the trouble is due to some serious internal disorder.

Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap are sold by all druggists.

Don't Let Soap Spoil Your Hair

When you wash your hair, be careful what you use. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—Advertisement.

Fitchburg Girl Gives Blood to Aid Her Mother

Fitchburg, March 3.—Mrs. Elwin W. Terrell is gaining strength at the Burbank Hospital here, as the result of an operation for the transfusion of blood from her daughter to herself.

The daughter, 18-year-old Edith W. Terrell, submitted to the operation yesterday, and today physicians said it had been an entire success.

Mrs. Terrell was suffering from a general breakdown. She is the mother of ten children, six living. Her home is at No. 139 Lunenburg street.

An operation became necessary to save her life, but the doctors decided she was not strong enough to undergo the ordeal. The blood transfusion was performed to strengthen her for the operation, which—if all continues to go well—will be performed some time next week.

"I did no more than what any daughter should do," said Miss Terrell. "It should not be forgotten what mothers do for their children. I realized that there was danger yet I also realized that my act in no way repaid mother for what she has done for me."

MYSTERY GROWS IN PROVIDENCE JOURNAL FIRE

Providence, March 3.—The mysterious fire and explosion in Managing Editor Kirby's office at the Providence Journal put all other local mysteries into the background today and centred gossip on talk of "strange acids," "guards," "suspects" and the finding of a "bomb" in the engine room of the Journal building a month ago.

According the police, a partly filled bottle of strange acid was found in the fire debris today, and later came a statement that the hands of Publisher John R. Rathom of the Journal, who has been called a close friend of the British ambassador, Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, were slightly burned when the acid exploded during the fire.

Thes are some of the facts that became known today:

Editor Kirby was away at the time of the fire.

Night Editor George Carpenter, discovering the flames, notified Publisher Rathom, who occupied the next room to Editor Kirby.

Just as Rathom and Carpenter entered the managing editor's room, the acid was scattered about, some of it falling on Rathom's hands.

The flames were put out after they had damaged newspaper files and records.

On the "gossip" end, came statements that the building for some time has been closely guarded, that several weeks ago a bomb was found in the building, timed to explode a dozen hours after its discovery, and that the police had their eyes on unnamed "suspects."

DR. SEYMOUR TAKES OATH OF OFFICE

In the presence of a group of state officials, Dr. Malcolm Seymour of Boston qualified today as medical director of the savings bank life insurance system, before Governor McCall.

As moving pictures have proven the best method of placing the advantages of savings bank life insurance before the people, a "movie" man trained his camera on the scene.

Among those present were Bank Commissioner Thorndike, State Actuary Irving R. Hurst and Miss Alice H. Grady, private secretary to Louis D. Brandeis, who was one of the originators of this system. Miss Grady is now lecturing on the advantages of the system, to the accompaniment of motion pictures.

Mr. Brandeis helped to start the system because he was convinced that it would provide insurance for poor people at lower rates than charged by the private companies. About 12,000 people are now insured. The total insurance amounts to $5,000,000.

Dr. Seymour has been an examiner since the system was started in 1908.

M'CALL RECEPTION AT NEWTON TONIGHT

Governor McCall and Lieutenant-Governor Coolidge will be guests of honor at Company C, Fifth Infantry in the West Newton armory tonight. Adjutant General Cole and the Governor's staff will be present. Military men will be in full dress uniform. General James G. White is in charge of the reception.

IDLER CLUB PLAY TO OPEN TONIGHT

The Radcliffe Idler Club will give the first performance of the club's play, "The First Lady of the Land," tonight at the college. Ruth Delano coached the play. Eunice Aallen as James Madison, and Mary Elliss as Aaron Burr will have the principal male parts.

EAT LESS MEAT AND TAKE SALTS IF KIDNEYS HURT

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.—Advertisement.

GIRLS PELT POLICE WITH DECAYED EGGS

Shelton, Ct., March 3.—Rioting girl strikers numbering forty, from the shops of the R. N. Bassett Company, in a clash with the police today pelted them with rotten eggs, stones, decayed fruit, cayenne pepper and other missiles. The uniforms of the police were badly soiled and torn and the officers' faces cut and scratched. Two of the riotous leaders, Annie Kurozeurez and Josephine R. Oscvecz, were arrested and after their comrades had attempted to storm the jail were held in $50.

COMMITTEE BARS BRANDEIS RESOLVE

The House Committee on Rules today reported adversely on a resolution urging Congress to confirm the appointment of Louis D. Brandeis as associate justice of the Supreme Court. Representative William H. Sullivan of Boston, member of the committee, said:

"This report should not be taken as any indication that the committee is for or against Mr. Brandeis. The committee felt the confirmation was up to Congress."

$25,000 CHICAGO DIAMOND ROBBERY

Chicago, March 3.—The theft of diamonds said to be valued at more than [illegible] from [illegible] & Co., jewelers, was reported to the police early today.

A well dressed young man entered the store yesterday and asked to see diamond rings. The manager brought out three trays, each containing [illegible] rings. After 10 minutes' conversation, the customer left the place, declaring himself dissatisfied.

Later it was discovered a whole tray of rings was missing.

HOUSE TO INVESTIGATE MONEY CHARGES AGAINST LEGISLATOR

The House of Representatives today voted to investigate the charges that Representative Harry C. Foster of Gloucester, a former mayor of that city and House chairman of the Committee on Roads and Bridges, collected money from persons interested in legislation before his committee.

Two orders, each providing an investigation, were adopted. One of these was offered by Representative Foster himself. The other was presented by Representative James M. Lyle of Gloucester, accuser of Representative Foster. Each was unanimously adopted.

The Foster order provides for an investigation by a committee to be appointed by the Speaker. It does not name either Foster or Lyle. The Lyle order provides that the Committee on Rules shall make the investigation, and names both Lyle and Foster. Both orders provide for public hearings.

The second order will guide the investigation, it was stated. The Committee on Rules will make the inquiry. This order provides:

"That the Committee on Rules investigate the charges made by James M. Lyle, a member of this House, that Harry C. Foster, representative from the twenty-first Essex district, is guilty of irregular conduct, unbecoming a member, in that he has collected money from persons interested in legislation pending before this House."

CHARGE BY LYLE.

After the Foster order had been adopted by the House, Representative John W. Craig of Ward 12 urged that the second order be not adopted, "as Representative Lyle has had an opportunity to make good and has failed to do so."

Representative Victor F. Jewett of Lowell, a Republican leader, suggested that both orders be adopted, and this was done.

The order adopted in the House today grew out of an occurrence last Wednesday. On that day the Committee on Roads and Bridges gave a hearing on a proposal to build a highway from Gloucester to Rockport. Representative Lyle asserted, in his address to the committee, that:

"A member of this committee has collected money from persons interested in this bill." He demanded an investigation as to who gave the money, what promises they received and what the man who colected the money did with it. He did not name Representative Foster.

Representative Foster, however, said when Lyle had finished:

"I collected this money and I gave it to an attorney as a regular legal fee."

ATTORNEY'S STATEMENT.

Later Attorney John J. Walsh of Boston appeared before the committee and said that he had been retained in connection with the bill and paid $400 by Foster in two cash payments of $200 each. He said he was not registered as a legislative agent, and did not appear at the first hearing on the bill because he was busy in court that day and because Foster had told him, as chairman of the committee, that the hearing would be put over till the Rockport town meeting should pass on the merits of the bill.

The committee assured Attorney Walsh that his connection with the affair was not questioned or criticized in any way.

Lime and Tuberculosis

Dr. Roberts Bartholow, former professor in Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, says in his Materia Medica (1895), on pages 215 and 216: "Clinical experience has shown that it (referring to a calcium salt) possesses the ill-defined property known as alterative, removes certain toxic or morbific materials and secures their secretion by the organs of elimination. * * * The testimony which has lately been published in respect to its curative powers in consumption is certainly very striking."

He does not refer to testimony regarding Eckman's Alterative, since the medical profession never publicly recommends proprietary remedies. However, many cases of consumption seem to have yielded to this remedy.

This success may be due largely to the fact that in Eckman's Alterative a calcium (lime) salt is so combined with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated by the average person. It contains neither opiates, narcotics nor habit-forming drugs, so is safe. Sold by all Riker Drug Stores and leading druggists.

A MUSIC MASTER SINGING PRAISES

Prof. James E. Campbell, of Chelsea, Is Now a Well Man.

In order that any man or woman may derive a full measure of pleasure and success from life, it is necessary that he or she should be possessed of health in mind and body. It is certain that the greatest thing in all this world is health; without it a man can scarcely do anything worth doing; he can accomplish little that is really worth accomplishing. Attention to health, then, should take the place of every other object. That which is necessary to secure it should receive consideration in preference to everything else. For instance, the preparation, Plant Juice, the new herbal system tonic, is gaining a large following in Boston, where daily grateful people are testifying to its merits and recommending it to their friends.

PROF. JAMES E. CAMPBELL

Recently the signed testimonial was received from Professor James E. Campbell, who is one of the best known and popular instructors of music in Massachusetts, has resided in this State for the past 30 years and in Chelsea, Boston, for three years. He stated:

"I had suffered from dyspepsia, indigestion and a general deranged stomach for the past four years. It was pronounced intestinal indigestion and gastritis. I became so bad that I was confined to my room for weeks at a time, and could not eat solid food of any description. At one time I had to refrain from eating for five days, except oranges and other fruit. I suffered untold agony and distress, and finally became afflicted with rheumatism in my shoulders, arms, and legs. I had spent hundreds of dollars but never received any permanent benefit until I commenced to take Plant Juice. I can truthfully say that your medicine has cured me, and I no longer suffer from aches or pains. I can eat hearty, sleep fine and I am recommending Plant Juice to my many friends."

The Plant Juice man is at the Liggett's Drug Store, corner of Washington and Avon streets, where he daily meets the local public and introduces and explains the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

A Medicine That Overcomes Most Obstinate Kidney Troubles

About 1904 I was bothered about two years with a severe attack of kidney trouble. My condition was such that I was hardly able to drag around the house and do my work. I did not have any appetite and could not rest at night and I felt more tired in the morning than I did on going to bed. My doctor treated me for about one month; he said that I had kidney trouble, but he did not give me any relief. By chance one day my husband was in town and noticed Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root on a druggist's shelf and decided to bring some home for me to try; the first bottle gave such relief that I continued the use of Swamp-Root until I was restored to good health, and I have had good health for the last ten years. I cheerfully recommend Swamp-Root to others who have kidney troubles.

Yours truly,
MINNIE DOROUGH,
Antlers, Okla.

Personally appeared before me this first day of March, 1915, Minnie Dorough, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

The other building was owned by Mrs. John Wiggins. The loss of the building was about the same and the damage to the contents was placed at approximately $500. The library building is valued at $5,000. At a late hour the firemen were trying to get the blaze under control in the public library.

DEMAND GUARDS FOR PORTLAND STRIKE

Portland, Me., March 3.—The local office of the Grand Trunk railroad asked Mayor Chapman today to arrange for extra protection, if necessary, for railroad docks and other terminal property, in case of trouble with 200 striking freight handlers, whose places are being taken by strikebreakers.

The police guard at the terminal was increased today to twenty-six men. The railroad officials wish the Mayor to be ready to swear in more special officers on demand.

The strikers went out when the road refused to grant demands for a 50 cent increase in the daily wage scale of $2. The men rejected a compromise offer of $2.25.

The strikers are not organized yet, but have forwarded an application to the Boston office of the Longshoremen's International Union, asking for a union charter.

When not in meeting the strikers have clustered along India street in the neighborhood of the railroad terminal. The police keep them moving.

Mrs. Storey Is Held Out West for Kidnaping

Worcester, March 3.—Mrs. Minnie H. Storey, divorced wife of Frank C. Storey, Main street, is under arrest at Newcastle, Indiana, charged with kidnaping their two children, according to information received by Chief of Police Hill today.

The woman is charged by her former husband with having taken the children, Ralph, nine, and Dorothy, eleven, from their school and started with them for Seattle, Washington.

He made formal complaint to the police and a description of Mrs. Storey was sent West.

Deputy Chief of Police Thomas McMurray received information that the children were with their mother when she was taken into custody and they will return with her.

Assistant District Edward T. Esty said today that he had already started preparing extradition papers.

Deputy McMurray also stated that the man who gave notes from Mrs. Storey to the children would not be arrested, as there is no evidence that he was concerned in the kidnaping.

Boxer Held Under Mann Act.

On a charge of violation of the Mann act, Thomas ("Pal") Moore, featherweight boxer, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Hayes and held in $1,000 bail for a hearing March 4.

OLD GUARD ASKS BIRD WHERE HE STANDS

Charles S. Baxter, campaign manager for the Old Guard slate of presidential delegates at large, threw down the gauntlet to Charles Sumner Bird by declaring today that the former Progressive candidate for Governor will be "completely ignored" in this campaign until he declares fealty to the Republican party.

Mr. Bird, who temporarily joined the Republican forces in the last campaign, is now one of the Big Four delegation pledged to support Colonel Roosevelt for President.

"We will pay some attention to Grafton D. Cushing and Congressman Gardner because we feel that they are attempting to gain control of the Republican party in this State, rather than to elect Roosevelt," said Mr. Baxer, "but we will completely ignore Charls Sumner Bird until he declares that he is a Republican.

"Unless he so declares he has no right to run in Republican primaries. We want to know whether he will, if he is elected a delegate, support any other candidate than Mr. Roosevelt if Roosevelt is not nominated."

Mr. Baxter declared also that the Massachusetts delegates to the Chicago convention will be expected to support "a Massachusetts man, if a Massachusetts man can be nominated for President."

Protest Site of Incineration in Brookline

Vigorous opposition to the proposed erection of a garbage incinerator plant on the McGrady lot in Reservoir lane, Brookline, was made by residents of the Fisher Hill and Chestnut Hill Districts of the town at a meeting in the town hall before the subcommittee on public safety and health.

Former Selectman George S. Baldwin, a leader of the opposition, declared that the neighbors to the McGrady lot were so aroused that they were willing to pay Selectman Ernest B. Dane, the owner of the lot, his price of $25,000 and give a bonus of 2 per cent. for interest charges, provided the town would agree to place the incinerator a safe distance from Fisher Hill.

A vote was taken to test the sentiment of the meeting, and only five persons were in favor of the McGrady lot location. Four of them were town officers.

New England's Leading Business Houses Have Been Large Investors in Autocars—This Building and Organization Protect That Investment

FAITH in the Autocar itself, faith in the tremendous market for commercial motor vehicles that New England offered, and faith that New Englanders would support an institution of their own, was the reason that The Autocar Company six years ago established in Boston this permanent Factory Branch.

At that time but few Autocars were used in New England—the appreciation of this Autocar policy of factory service to local users is the hundreds of Autocars in every line of business that are now seen at every turn.

TAFT TO TALK ON "THE RED CROSS"

Former President William H. Taft will talk on "The Red Cross" at a meeting tonight in the Arlington Street Church. Rev. Paul Revere Frothingham will preside.

EAT BIG MEALS! NO INDIGESTION OR BAD STOMACH

"Pape's Diapepsin" makes weak stomachs strong and healthy at once.

Instantly stops sourness, gases, heartburn, acidity, dyspepsia.

There would not be a case of indigestion or dyspepsia here if readers who are subject to stomach troubles knew the tremendous anti-ferment and digestive virtue contained in Pape's Diapepsin. This harmless preparation will digest a heavy meal without the slightest fuss or discomfort, and relieve the sourest, acid stomach in five minutes, besides overcoming all foul, nauseous odors from the breath.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on each 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily understand why this promptly overcomes indigestion and removes such symptoms as heartburn, a feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, belching of gas and eructations of undigested food, water brash, acidity, nausea, headache, biliousness and many other bad symptoms; and, besides, you will not need laxatives to keep your stomach, liver and intestines clean and fresh.

If your stomach is sour and full of gas or your food doesn't digest, and your meals don't seem to fit, why not get a 50-cent case from your druggist and make life worth living? Absolute relief from stomach misery and perfect digestion of anything you eat is sure to follow five minutes after, and besides, one case is sufficient to rid a whole family of such trouble.

Surely a harmless, inexpensive preparation like Diapepsin, which will always, either at daytime or during night, relieve your stomach misery and digest your meals, is about as handy and valuable a thing as you could have in the house.—Advertisement.

COTTON MAN IS SOUND LINES WITNESS

Providence, March 3.—The Providence sessions of the hearing by the Interstate Commerce Commission on the petition of the New Haven Railroad to be allowed to retain the Sound steamboat lines began today.

The feature was the questioning of William M. McLane, representing the Fall River Cotton Manufacturers' Association, who came to urge the petition be granted.

Mr. McLane was quizzed particularly by Allan H. Elder, counsel for the Interstate Commerce Commission. Mr. McLane admitted that he spoke only for the Fall River cotton manufacturers, and had made no effort to ascertain the feeling of other shipping interests in Fall River.

FAVOR RETENTION.

Arthur W. Forbes of New Bedford and H. W. Branch of the Norwich, Ct., Chamber of Commerce, also testified in favor of the railroad keeping its boat lines.

[illegible] Howell, special examiner for the Commission, is holding the hearing in the United States District Court. The opening session brought a large attendance of witnesses and spectators.

Government representatives beside Examiner Howell and Counsel Allan H. Elder include H. LaRue Brown, counsel for the Department of Justice; Adrian H. Boole, who has been investigating competitive transportation conditions in New England; Alexander H. Elder for the Commission and Frank Swacker, special representative of the Department of Justice.

Witnesses were presented by Lewis A. Waterman, representing interests opposed to divorcing the present rail and boat services.

Mr. McLane of the Fall River cotton manufacturing interests said 70 per cent. of the cotton freighting from that city was done by the Sound steamboats, that his association represented $6,000,000 of capital and had an output of 1,680,000 yards of cotton cloth annually.

"RATES SATISFACTORY."

"Our organization," he said, "is against this divorce because the New Haven road could not ship as quickly by rail to New York as by its Sound line. The Sound line takes a load of cotton at night and lands it at New York the next morning."

Q. (by Counsel Elder)—Do you know anything of the Colonial line? A.—No.

Q.—Do you not know that the Colonial line is starting out for business? A.—I do not. I am simply talking for the cotton manufacturers.

Mr. McLane said later: "If they divorce these lines an independent line would increase rates. The present system is satisfactory as to rates and particularly as to speed in carrying."

Q.—Have you made any effort to ascertain the feeling of the other Fall River industries? A.—I have not. I consider representing about 70 cotton mills sufficient for me.

Mr. Forbes of New Bedford said he feared divorcing the lines would mean higher rates.

POKER CLASS IN MUNICIPAL COURT

The qualifications for a good poker player were discussed when Abraham Mantouk, forty-five, of Hudson street, South End, was in the Municipal Court today charged with operating a gambling house. Berkat Maloof testified that he lost more than $120 at poker in Mantouk's eating house. On cross-examination Maloof said that the best hand he ever held in a poker game contained four aces. Mantouk was found guilty and fined $75.

M'CLENNAN IS BRANDEIS CASE WITNESS

Washington, March 3.—Edward W. McClennan resumed the stand at today's hearing of the Senate investigation of the fitness of Louis D. Brandeis for appointment to the Supreme bench. Mr. McClennen continued his detailed explanation of the Warren will case in reply, as he said, to the testimony of Mr. Youngman. The committee apparently did not regard as necessary the explanation of the minor phases of the administration of the Warren property.

"There was no point of evil in the entire indictment which Mr. Youngman did not charge to Mr. Brandeis," said the witness. "As the litigation was never brought to a conclusion, our side of the case was not presented.

"These things relate to the merits of the case," said Senator Cummins. "What I am interested in is Mr. Brandeis's relations to the parties to the controversy."

COUPLE ADOPTED MAN OF 44 YEARS

Through the assistance of the Probate Court, George Tiers Hatch Comins of Braintree, has had his name changed twice within eight years. The first time was when at forty-four years old, he was adopted by a Weymouth family. Now Judge Flint of the Norfolk Probate Court has consented to the petition filed in his court to allow the petitioner to take his old name of Hatch, the name he was known by before it was changed to Comins. It was learned for the first time that Mr. Comins who is now fifty-two years of age, was adopted on December 23, 1908, by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Comins of Weymouth.

Seavey of Frost street, Cambridge. The police allege that McKenna stole the auto from Bennet street, South End, yesterday.

Special Officer Harvey has a warrant charging McKenna with the larceny of an auto owned by Fred W. Moore, treasurer of the Harvard A. A.

NEW ENGLAND SHIP OWNERS ACCUSED

Charges that New England shipping men have knowingly sent unseaworthy craft to sea have led to an inquiry by the Department of Commerce at Washington, according to a dispatch from that city today.

The dispatch stated that Assistant Secretary of Commerce Sweet had begun a general investigation of shipping conditions, and that the department's attention had been called to the mystery of the fate of the Gloucester fishing schooner Ella M. Doughty, missing since last Fall with her captain and crew of six men.

First of the ships to be investigated by the department are a number of Gloucester fishing vessels, the dispatch said.

The news of the inquiry aroused the interest of shipping men, and general denial was made of the charges that ships had been sent out from port when they were in no condition for sea-going. Owners of the missing schooner Doughty declared she was one of the staunchest ships in the fishing service.

"We have received no word of an inquiry, but we would welcome such an investigation," said Benjamin Smith of the Gorton-Pew Fisheries Company, of Gloucester, owners of the missing craft. "There is absolutely no danger of any Gloucester fishing ship, if properly built in the first place, meeting with any disaster other than being driven ashore or being sunk in collision.

"All our fishing vessels are overhauled twice a year, and repairs if needed are made regardless of expense.

"You couldn't afford to send a ship to sea if she were not properly equipped, for the risk is too great. The Doughty was the best-equipped coaster in our service. The skipper, Captain Robert Higgins, when he was told he could have the schooner Ramona, said he preferred the Doughty.

"He said the Doughty was a stauncher ship, so we overhauled her, put in a new gasoline windlass and so on before sending her out.

"Any Gloucester fishing ship if properly built will stand any storm better than any steamship afloat."

William H. Jordan, former Collector of the Port at Gloucester and now head of the William H. Jordan Company, said:

"There is no better craft afloat than a Gloucester fishing schooner. Of disasters to them, 99 per cent. are caused by collision or their being driven ashore.

"If there is an investigation, the fishing interests will do whatever they can to assist the investigators in going over the vessels."

Some of the fishing vessel owners declared they were convinced an American consul in a Canadian province was behind the inquiry; and they explained this by saying this consul for a long time had been boosting Canadian fishing interests at the expense of the Gloucester industry.

The schooner Doughty was built in 1884 at Kennebunk, Me. She was of seventy-five gross and fifty-one net tonnage and when last seen was starting from Gloucester on a freighting voyage to Newfoundland. That was last Fall. Her fate and the fate of her skipper and crew have remained a mystery.

TWO CONNECTICUT MURDERERS HANGED

By International News Service.

Hartford, Ct., March 3.—In the space of forty minutes two men were hanged early today at the Wethersfield State Prison. They were Isaac N. Williams of Bridgeport and Harry E. Roe of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

They were convicted of the murder of County Commissioner Hubert N. Case of Barkhamsted on November 29, 1914, while robbing his store.

A tapped telephone wire gave the police the clue that led to their arrest in January 1915. They were sentenced to be hanged last December, but were granted a reprieve to make an appeal to the board of pardons.

CHELSEA MAN PUTS THIEVES TO FLIGHT

Three burglars were frightened off while attempting to enter the house of ex-Alderman Charles H. Black, Cary avenue, Chelsea, early today. Later Mr. Black found one of the men crouching in a dark corner of the back veranda. Mr. Black had a revolver but when he pulled the trigger the weapon failed to discharge. The man then escaped.

Mrs. Black had meantime telephoned the police and a squad of patrolmen were rushed to the scene in an auto. They were unable to find trace of the men.

EVERY THREE MINUTES ONE DIES IN THE U. S.

The Anti-Tuberculosis Society illustrates the frightful toll of consumption by extinguishing a light every three minutes, and shows that it is the man or woman, girl or boy, who neglects colds, whose blood is impure, who feels weak and languid, who is often the very one to contract tuberculosis.

During changing seasons or after sickness, if you and your family will take Scott's Emulsion after meals it will charge your blood with health-sustaining richness, quicken circulation, and strengthen both lungs and throat.

Scott's is free from alcohol—easy to take—it cannot harm. Get a bottle to-day, but refuse substitutes.

State and City Heads to Dance at 'Happy's' Ball

State and city officials in large numbers will grace with their presence the mammoth merrymaking annual cabaret and ball of the Happy Twenty, which is only a week off.

State dignitaries will tread through the mazes of the new dances, revolving slowly while their coat-tails protrude behind, or will be spectators at the record-breaking cabaret, in which the longest list of stars ever assembled for that purpose will be seen.

Convention Hall will be jammed on the night of nights, and cars will be swamped, as everyone will be on their way to "The Happy Ball."

Happy, "the King of the Newsies," is working himself into nervous prostration securing star performers, and making sure that nothing is overlooked that will help to make the affair the most successful ever held.

The cabaret is scheduled to begin at 10 o'clock, and will continue officially until 4 a. m. Confidentially, Happy swears that it will be impossible for the performers secured by him and Bill Lang to finish all their acts in that time.

These performers include in their ranks every kind of entertainer that money can hire or ingenuity can think up.

There will be monologists, singing and dancing acts, soloists of both sexes, quartettes, exhibitions of the new steps and last but far from least, "Fashion Plate," whatever that may be. Happy knows and so does Bill Lang, but they won't tell. When queried they just grin joyously and hurry away.

In the upper hall dancing will begin at 9 o'clock and continue until 2 in the morning. "Alexander the Great" will furnish the music for the dancers, who will frequently be regaled with exhibitions by expert dancers.

Esther Ray, Billy Gleason, Billy Murray, Sophine Bennett, Della Tuttle, the Feist Entertainers, Abel Baer Ray, Victor Vivarios, Jack Ewatt, [illegible], Helen Roberts and Jeannie Quinn will be on hand in the cabaret hall and should furnish a merry entertainment.

WATSON, SLAYER OF WIFE, EXECUTED

Ossining, N. Y., March 3.—Walter Watson was put to death in Sing Sing Prison today for the murder of his wife in Brooklyn two years ago. Watson entered the death chamber at 5:51 o'clock, alternately murmuring prayers and protestations of innocence. Eight minutes later he was pronounced dead.

"Before God I swear I never killed Elizabeth," the doomed man kept muttering to those around him.

3 ALARMS FOR DOWNTOWN BLAZE

Three alarms were sounded early today for a threatening fire in the Shoe and Leather Building, Nos. 112 to 118 Bedford street, in the heart of the city's wholesale dry goods district. The damage to the building and the loss to the more than two-score occupants, according to fire officials, was [illegible].

The fire started at the bottom of an elevator shaft in the rear of the building, adjoining the kitchen of the [illegible] lunch room. Creeping up the wall through the air shaft, it burst out through the roof, lighting up the sky until it looked as though the building was doomed.

The fire was discovered by Joseph Murphy, watchman of the building. He saw smoke issuing from the bottom of the elevator shaft, and ran to the office of the Western Union Telegraph Company in the building. From here a still alarm was telephoned to fire headquarters and Engine 7 and Ladder 17 responded.

For some time after the arrival of this apparatus the firemen encountered difficulty in locating the seat of the fire but a puff of flame and smoke in the shaft finally revealed its location and a bell alarm was sounded, summoning additional apparatus.

When Chief [illegible] arrived with the first-alarm apparatus, smoke was pouring from the windows on the top floor and he immediately sounded a second alarm. This was quickly followed by the third when the flames burst through the roof and showers of sparks began falling on nearby buildings.

The blaze covered an area bounded by Bedford and Kingston streets and Kingston alley. It was in this alley at the rear that the fire burned the fiercest, and here the firemen concentrated their efforts toward extinguishing the flames.

Aerials 8 and 17 threw their ladders up against the building on the Bedford street side, and trucks 13 and 18 were stationed on the Kingston street side of the building. Lines of hose were run up over these ladders to the roofs, and tons of water were poured down upon the blaze from these points. Lines of hose were also run up through the stairways of the building and over fire escapes at the rear.

CAT TREED BY DOG, SAVED BY BRAKEMAN

[illegible] Healy, a brakeman on the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn Railroad, rescued a cat [illegible] in front of his home, No. 15 Coral street, Winthrop, today, amid the cheers of a number of people, who were drawn to the scene by the [illegible] cries of the cat.

The cat was perched on a limb high up the tree, watched by a dog. Healy first broke the dog of its "watchful waiting," then climbed the tree and brought the cat down.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after-effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids.

It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "loggy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

Tyler in First Squad

THREE players, Southpaw George Tyler and Recruits Bernie Lee, Tufts College's former captain and promising third sacker, and Arthur Ricco, Huntington School's former rattling efficient chubby catcher, accompanied by six Boston baseball experts, were chaperoned over to New York on the 12:30 a. m. train by Business Manager Walter Hapgood of the Braves.

Outfielder Joe Connolly joined the party at Providence. As for the others, several dozen all told, some are to be picked up in New York today; there's already half a dozen or more, including Captain Johnny Evers, Catcher Hennery Gowdy and Pitchers Ragan, Hughes and Nehf frolicking with Manager George Stallings on his plantation at Haddock, Ga.—for evidence, the photos printed in the sporting edition of last night's AMERICAN—while all the others will be picked up at Macon, Ga., located on Haddock's outskirts, tomorrow.

There was no excitement attached to the Braves' getaway. Departing at an unseasonable hour, with the night a frigidly cold one, kept all well-wishers among the fans at home. They showed sense, too, in staying away from South Station, as Tyler was the only "old hero" on view.

SLATTERY STRONG FOR LEE.

Lee has the cut of a ballplayer, while Ricco is a husky youth. Just the same, they haven't won their spurs in professional baseball and remain strangers with fandom.

Still, Jack Slattery, Tufts' efficient coach, is loud in his praise of both juveniles, especially boosting Lee, and the old National League catcher will be proven a bogus tipster if the two rookies don't come through.

As for Lee, Slattery is confident he is on the Braves for all times, and while scarcely going to prove a riot this year, will be farmed out with cable attachment by Stallings when the planting season comes, Jack claims.

TOGETHER IN N. Y. TODAY.

The dandy little shortstop will be on deck at the Hotel Breslin this morning and with him, per forecast, will be Sherwood Magee, the Shannon twins, Edgar Collins, the former Pirate, who is banked upon by Stallings as becoming one of his regular outfielders, and Old Reliable Richard Rudolph, who has been mingling with his folks in Gay Gotham all week after spending three weeks teaching the young idea at Williams College how to grip the horsehide and put the proper "stuff" on it.

N. B.—With the party leaving the South Station at midnight was Trainer Jim Neary and his assistant, "Silent" Jones.

Per program, the Braves, as a whole, will reach Tampa, Fla., Tuesday afternoon and work will start on Little Braves' Field, built expressly for Stallings and his warriors, the following day.

CAPT. NASH ISSUES A CALL FOR MONDAY

Captain Henry Nash of the Harvard baseball team has issued a call for all candidates for the nine to report to Coach Fred Mitchell next Monday. The new coach has had practically three weeks to size up his battery men and will probably keep the hurlers and backstop candidates working until the squad is able to get out of doors. Harvard has Nash, Abbot, Reed and Fripp, its 1915 infield, intact, but lost Gannett, Brickley and Hardwick, its speedy trio of outfielders.

PERCY TOP SCORER FOR HARVARD TEAM

George Percy, the star rover of the Harvard varsity hockey team, was high scorer for the season. He dumped the disc home nine times, Laurie Curtis, now in Paris, ranking second with six goals. Percy played in three more games than Curtis. The other scorers were: Baker 5, Rice 3, J. Morgan 2, and Thatcher, Baldwin, Bliss, Doty, W. Morgan and Taylor, one each.

Brides has been coaching the Massachusetts Aggies the last several years.

Revere Elks Five Enter Capital Pin Tourney

Elk lodges in the Eastern part of the United States are going to participate in the bowling tournament of the Atlantic Coast Bowling Association, to be held in Washington, starting April 3, in such numbers as to make "Elks' Night" one grand occasion. This fact became established this week as answers started coming in to the invitation extended by the local lodge of Elks to their Eastern brothers.

Revere Lodge of Elks was the first to announce its intention of entering a team in the big bowling classic to be held in the national capital. The Elks of Brooklyn, N. Y., who have not only decided to put in a number of teams, but have asked for a date, were others to line up for the event, and before the week is up it is expected that lodges up and down the Atlantic seaboard will have asked for accommodations in the affair.

A big street parade is one of the features that will make "Elks' Day," a gala occasion, the Washington Lodge having already started for this phase of the tournament.

Entries in the tournament close March 25, at midnight, and the entrance fees have started to come in. Five hundred teams will enter, and the prize list will be the biggest of any tourney ever held in the eastern part of the United States.

Elks Lodge secretaries and others interested in the A. C. B. A. tournament can get any additional information from Secretary Tom Grant of the Chamber of Commerce, at the Chamber headquarters, No. 1202 F street northwest, Washington, D. C.

"Hobe" Ferris, rather peeved at the result of his ten-string match with Harry Cody, challenged Cody to a twenty-string match, which was promptly accepted. Cody has a sixty pin handicap. The first ten strings are to be rolled on the Allston Alleys, Saturday afternoon and the last ten on Wardwell's Alleys, Quincy, Tuesday, March 7. Both are stars of the same team in the Walworth League.

The first of a series of matches between the B. Y. M. C. Union and H26 team was captured by the latter team. The scores: Union, 1311; H26, 1359.

WELTERS MEET IN WINDUP

Joe Eagan and "Italian Joe" Gans Feature B. M. A. A. Card—Stearns on With Snyder.

B. M. A. A. BOXING CARD.

Joe Eagan, South Boston, vs. "Italian Joe" Gans, Brooklyn; twelve rounds.

Sammy Stearns, West End, vs. Barney Snyder, Roxbury; eight rounds.

Johnny Donovan, South Boston, vs. "Chick" McDonald, Cambridge, six rounds.

Johnny Yanger, East Boston, vs. Johnny O'Brien, Roxbury; six rounds.

Referee—Larry Conley.

Starting time—8 p. m.

JOE EAGAN, the South Boston welterweight, winner of his last eight bouts, meets "Italian Joe" Gans of Brooklyn, one of the division's most rugged members, in the main event at twelve rounds, at the B. M. A. A. show, Hibernian Hall, Roxbury, tonight.

Manager E. Hightlier Mack has Eagan in the pink of trim for his melee with the Brooklyn Italian and is confident his charge is going to remain on his winning streak.

Gans is short and squatty, none too scientific or speedy, but possesses a kayo wallop. He's reported to be a fighter who bores in all the time, perfectly willing to take punches in order to get home one of his pet variety.

Al McMurray, who showed Frankie Nelson against Freddie Yelle at the Hippodrome Tuesday night, has Gans in tow and claims he will have a winner this trip. Al likewise states that if Nelson's bum left lamp had not been split open so early in his set-to with Freddie Yelle, the Taunton tapper would have experienced the most exciting evening of his young career.

Be that as it may, the fans hope Gans comes through with a pert performance. Not that they want to see Eagan whipped—they don't—but they figure it's time a regular, hope-to-die battle was staged in a local ring.

The B. M. A. A. shows have been pleasing all season and Matchmaker Criss is confident he has booked the star program of them all for tonight.

Sammy Stearns and Barney Snyder, two busy little glovesmen, who put up several hurrah bouts at the Atlas last Summer, hook up in the semi-windup.

The two six-rounders will be furnished by Johnny Donovan, the little sensation from South Boston, who has not lost a fight since turning professional, and "Chick" McDonald and Johnny Yanger and Johnny O'Brien. The last-named pair go on in the curtain-raiser.

RING REMARKS

THE B. M. A. A. was in high hopes of putting Al Shubert and Eddie Campi on next Friday night but it looks as if the bout will lie over for a while.

CAMPI, though posing as a bantamweight, wanted the weight notch to be 120 pounds. John Miller, Shubert's manager, consented to this, but as for the additional terms he and the club failed to agree. Hence, nothing doing right now.

NORTH ABINGTON rings up the curtain tonight. It's to be Al Delmont, the veteran trickster, vs. Harry Carlson, the promising broiler, in the main skit.

CARLSON'S friends have chartered two special cars to run from Brockton to North Abington for the "concert." Quincy and Weymouth will also run over specials. Good old John L. Sullivan, who lives right there, is expected to be present and make one of his breezy talks.

AL McMURRAY, the Brooklyn manager, is getting his share of Boston dates. He had Frankie Nelson here last Tuesday; shows "Italian Joe" Gans tonight and will be back next Tuesday exhibiting Johnny Howard, the Bayonne, N. J., middleweight, with "Sailor" Grande of the House of Morgan.

The Melrose High and Arlington High sevens clash in the most important game of the Intercolligiate Hockey League season at the Arena tonight. The victor will be locked with Newton High for the lead and a post-season combat will be necessary to produce the title holder.

While Captain Clinton Peabody of Arlington is again in trouble with the faculty, it is reported matters will be so straightened out during the day that he will be able to get into the game.

Since 1910 Melrose and Arlington have engaged in nine ice battles. Melrose owns four victories and Arlington two, three games having wound up in tie scores.

Jess Blushes as Fair Ones Watch Him in Training

New York, March 3.—Blushing like a schoolboy, Jess Willard went through his training stunts today before a crowd of the fair sex. It was "ladies' day" at the champion's camp.

The big titleholder went for his usual hike through Central Park this morning before he appeared at the Pioneer A. C. The presence of the women acted as an inspiration for Jess, and he went through his preparations for the Moran bout with added impetus.

The champion and his handlers are plainly worried over the fact that the training thus far has been of little benefit to the champion in reducing his weight.

BOWDOIN SCORES ON ICE.

Lewiston, Me., March 3.—Bowdoin won from Bates, 2-0, in the first intercollegiate hockey game Maine has had in six years.

Army Champion, a 'Sub,' Loses to Alex Aberg

Ernesto, the loudly "touted" German heavyweight wrestler, failed to show up for his bout with Alex Aberg, the Finn flopper, at the Hippodrome last night and Frank Leavitt, reported to be the wrestling champion of the Army, substituted for him.

Leavitt is a husky youth. He's big and broad and must weigh all of 235 pounds. Leavitt did his best against Aberg and registered a big "hit" with the crowd. He took the match on a few hours' notice and must be applauded for his performance. However, Leavitt got Aberg in his best form and Alex tossed him in straight falls. They were gained in 24m. 45s. and 8m. 45s., respectively.

In the semi final Hans Furst, the light heavyweight, disposed of Steve Karger in straight falls. Kid Mike was a winner over Jack Gordon in the 150-pound class and Frank Viafora and Johnny Ierardi went fifteen minutes to a draw.

The house was none too buxom; in fact, about the poorest Promoter Tuohey has attracted all season.

BIG JESS FEELING FRISKY

Willard Has Best Day's Workout of Week—"Bob" Williams Joins Champion's Training Corps.

By JESS WILLARD,

Heavyweight Champion Pugilist of the World.

NEW YORK, March 3.—'Twas about fifteen minutes after 6 yesterday morning when I peeked over the blankets and through the window of my big room and saw the old snowflakes dropping

While I was lying there all huddled up, there was a rap on my door that sounded as if somebody was breaking in. In a moment Walter Monahan popped in and hollered. "Get up, right away"

When Monahan hollers, "get up," it's a good thing to obey If you don't, you'll freeze, for Walter has the habit of dragging all the clothes off you. I certainly hated to part company with the old bedstead, but Walter was right there watching me, so there was no choice. When I was all ready Walter said, "Come on," and Hemple and I followed

I guess it was about 7 o'clock when we entered Central Park. The ground was covered with snow and the atmosphere seemed to stir us up We started off on a slow jog and before we knew it we were tearing away like school kids. We were three big men dashing along and slipping back in great fashion and not one felt a day older than twelve

ZING! POPPED IN NECK.

Hemple fell back a few steps as if he were tired. A second later I felt the thud of a snowball on my neck I grabbed up a handful of snow and let Jack have it on the nose.

That started something and for the next minute or so Monahan, Hemple and I were indulging in a regular snowball battle I think we would still be there pegging away like a trio of kids if Monahan hadn't shoved me into the snow and started off on a trot I chased him, but Walter kept just a few paces ahead until we came back to the hotel It was the best morning workout I have had since I reached New York

It was about half-past seven when we strolled into the lobby of the hotel acting like a trio of kids. Up to the room we shot and then I enjoyed a nice hot bath and a good rub This used up a little over three-quarters of an hour and then we came downstairs and tackled the food

I don't know when I ever had such a ravenous appetite before. If Monahan had allowed me I would have eaten everything in sight. But Walter thought of my water gulping of Wednesday and cried a halt on the food

BUSY ALL DAY LONG.

About 9 o'clock the meal was over and I was resting comfortably when Monahan and Hemple invited me to take a stroll. I fell in and we walked all over Riverside Drive, up and around Grant's Tomb and back to the hotel

Before we knew it noon time was on us. Hemple and Monahan started for the dining room. I was only two steps behind. I didn't do my appetite full justice, for I knew there was quite some work in store for me

Around 2 o'clock we packed into our automobile and rolled down to the Pioneer Club. I felt 100 per cent better than I did Wednesday I was just wild to put on the gloves and slam and get slammed. I felt like a kid on a Saturday afternoon.

The best thing of the afternoon's training was that "Bob" Williams showed up to lengthen my boxing stunts. So, instead of four rounds I waded through six

Right now I wish to say that I felt stronger, better and my eye seemed quicker while going through the three sparring exhibitions. The old zip I felt rushing through my blood in the early morning seemed to stick and I went all through my different exercises feeling different than ever before

BEST WORKOUT OF WEEK.

It was a grand workout Williams was rather careful, probably because it was his first day of work But I told him later that I want him to swing as hard as he can We don't intend to hold any pink teas as far as this bout is concerned, you can rest assured.

After finishing boxing I did a little of that strenuous work of lifting yourself up while lying on a chair. This appears simple enough, but if you're not feeling good don't try it Take a tip from me

I laid off stopping the medicine ball with my stomach, preferring to wait another day Getting through with this work finished the training for the day and I skipped up to my dressing room.

Monahan and Hemple started to get even on me for walloping them by giving me a hard, dry rub. From that I flopped into the hot bath and then laid on the table for a good rub-down

It was about 5 o'clock when I bid farewell to the club and hustled for the hotel and eats. That over I rushed home. I was in bed at 11 and the day was over.

Music as Beauty's Handmaid

So Says Ruth Chatterton and Urges Beauty Seekers to Worship at Its Shrine

By Ruth Chatterton

I KNOW that a great many people have denied any meaning in personal beauty, but somehow I feel that I must emphasize that fact to tell what I think beauty really means.

Beauty to me is the psychology of one's self. Of course that means that I believe firmly in personal magnetism; and I do, because it absolutely forces unattractive points into the background, subordinating unpleasant things, so that only the more pleasing points are visible.

If I say that someone is beautiful, to me that person really appears so. If there happened to be a question of unattractive features in a case where I had insisted beauty was plainly visible, I should probably be looking a great deal further for what I saw to admire.

Sometimes I think one has to delve into things for beauty, because the obvious is not always the universally sought for and desired thing to be attained. I believe that there is always beauty if one looks hard enough for it, and after we find a thing beautiful it never again appears ugly and sordid. Perhaps if we narrow a thing down we find that after all beauty is nothing more nor less than love, because love glorifies a thing so wonderfully.

The most satisfactory medium for beauty is music. Music is all embracing and soul satisfying. There is nothing in the world like it, and it drapes its color and warmth about everything so that even a semblance of physical perfection is often reached. Music seems to embrace everything, too. It speaks of the inner self when the medium of speech is inadequate. I have known personally of people who were plain almost to ugliness, but who had been given the saving grace of music to express character.

A personality can be poured out of one's fingertips or through one's throat, and the less fortunate people who have not talent of their own can still absorb the wonders of sound and retain them for their own use.

I should advocate music, then, for the beauty seekers. There is nothing like it, and to worship at its shrine is an unbelievable privilege, while to learn of its wonders so as to use them again for one's personal benefit is a gift from the gods. Work out an outlet for yourself, a medium to show your character in its true light. Mold this combination of color and sound so as to benefit yourself to the greatest extent, and I believe and know that it can be done.

Ruth Chatterton, who is appearing in "Daddy Long Legs" at the Hollis Street Theatre.

Two Sorts of Operations

"I see they have operated on a boy's head in order to make a better boy of him."

"That's not where my dad used to operate on me to make a better boy of me."

What a Sneeze May Mean

SNEEZING from very remote times has been held ominous.

Our forefathers went to bed again if they sneezed while putting on their shoes! A sneeze to the right was deemed lucky; to the left, of evil portent. To sneeze near a burial place was very unlucky.

Tradition has it that sneezing was at first a fatal sign—every human being sneezed but once, and then died—but Jacob petitioned the Creator to remove the sneezing ban, and succeeded. Thence arose the once universal custom of saluting a sneezer with "God bless you!" or "May you live long!" The custom still obtains in some places.

In England not only was a sneezer blessed, but friends raised their hats to him as well! In an old book, "The Code of Conduct," it is directed that "if his lordship sneezes ye are not to bawl out 'God bless you!' but bow to him handsomely." All over the world the sneeze was recognized. Whole nations were under orders to make exclamations when their king sneezed!

Sneezing was believed to be a cure for hiccough, and was also looked upon as a sign of sanity. If ancient and universal belief goes for anything, it is good to sneeze.

Quite Time, Too

"Halloa, Paddy, how is it your're not working at your job just now?"

"Oi struck."

"What did you strike for?"

"Well, it was loike this. Wan wake ago cum tomorrow night Oi was put to wurrk amongst a gang av Oitalians, all biler-makers loike meself.

"Well, begorra, ivery mother's son av them Dagoes ate about a half dizen big anyans ivery dinner, an' all the rist av the day the odor av them anyans got inta me eyes, so that instead av driving bolts Oi'd be thumpin' me fingers.

"Well, the climax came wan afternoon whin me eyes were that full av water that instead av puttin' a bolt in a hole Oi put me finger in, an' the fellow on the inside av the biler put a washer over the ind av it an' hit it such a clip, begorra, that they had to take the biler apart to get the hole away from around me finger. It was thin Oi struck."

The Struggles of a Wife

Myra Webb Learns That Her Husband's Business Has Collapsed, but She Faces Poverty Bravely

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water.

CHAPTER II.

(Copyright, 1918, by Star Company).

DURING the days following the conversation with her daughter, Myra Webb almost forgot Grace's words, which had for a time impressed her so deeply.

The Easter holidays came, and with them such gayety as Grace enjoyed. There was a luncheon for Mary Ellett, her engaged friend, a little dance one evening, a dinner party another, and all in the Webb home.

Mrs. Webb had efficient maids, yet entertaining meant thought and planning on the part of the mistress of the house. So busy was she that she stopped watching her husband to see if he was depressed. In fact, he was away from home more than usual just now, for he had to run on to Boston one week, and, a few days later, to Buffalo. When he was at home, he said nothing about his own affairs, but seemed to interest himself in the gayeties in which his wife and daughter were concerned.

At the dinner party—composed principally of Grace's friends—he was especially gay and merry. His wife, looking at him from the opposite end of the table, remembered suddenly her forebodings of a fortnight ago, and smiled at herself.

REASSURANCE

Surely she had been morbidly anxious. Were matters not all right with Horace he could not laugh and jest with these girls and young men as he was now doing. How good looking he was—how stylish—how altogether dear and fine! She felt that she loved him more than ever.

Yet, that night, after the guests had gone away and he and she were lying in their own room in the darkness, she heard him turning and tossing in his bed.

"What's the matter, dear?" she asked at last. "Can't you sleep?"

"That coffee was pretty strong," he replied, by way of explanation of his restlessness. "Don't bother about me, Myra. Go to sleep."

She had no trouble in doing his bidding. His matter-of-fact tone had reassured her. She would not worry.

College reopened the following day and Grace returned to her work. Myra missed the girl as she tried to apply herself to some letters that must be answered. The vague anxiety that the wife had been able to banish was returning. She reasoned with herself, reminding herself how much she had to be thankful for. Her child was at college right here in town, coming home each afternoon; Horace was well; she had no ungratified wish. Why, then, was she uneasy?

DEPRESSION

Laying down her pen, she leaned back in her chair and gazed out of the window. A dreary Spring rain was falling. She wished that the sun would come out. If it only would, she might not be so depressed. She wished it was late afternoon so that Horace would be at home soon.

Yet she started as a familiar footstep sounded on the stairs. Was that Horace? Why was he coming home at this time of day?

She caught her breath nervously as her husband entered the room. His face was pale, and there were deep lines about his nose and mouth.

"Dearest!" she exclaimed, springing up and hurrying towards him. "What's happened? Are you ill?"

He tried to smile.

"No, not ill a bit," he replied. "But, Myra, I have something to tell you."

"Yes," she whispered. Her hands were upon his shoulders now, her face was raised anxiously to his.

"What is it? Tell me, quick!" she commanded.

He was a strong man and did not falter.

"My business has gone to smash," he said in a hard, strained voice. "That's all."

She did not cry out, did not faint. She seemed suddenly to have become as cold and calm as he.

COMPANIONSHIP

"Sit down, dear, she said, gently, "and tell me all about it."

He did as she bade him, and in a dreary monotone told her all. For a year he had been fighting against this catastrophe, and tried to save matters by sending good money after bad; had risked everything, had hoped against hope. And now the crash had come. Everything was gone.

"And I am at the very bottom of the ladder," said he, bitterly, "just where many a man of twenty begins. And I am past forty-five years of age."

"But you will climb," she said, confidently.

"Climb!" The expression was contemptuous, impatient. "And starve meanwhile. You forget that we have to live. Look at this," with a gesture that took in the luxuriously furnished room, "this has all got to go. I tell you we're penniless, Myra—worse than penniless, for I am in debt."

"But we have each other," she reminded him.

If he would only take her in his arms, as he had done when their only other sorrow had come to them—when their little boy died! But no, he would not show the tender side of his nature while talking of his troubles, even though he was worn out with the strain of the past anxious months.

"Yes, we have each other," he said gravely, "but that fact does not pay our bills."

"WE WILL PAY!"

"But we will pay them!" she exclaimed, raising her head defiantly. "And I can do my share."

"How?" he demanded, cynically. He did not mean to be unkind, but his tone cut her. Yet she would not show that it did.

"By changing our style of living," she told him, "and," with a timid smile, "by working."

"Working?" he repeated. "You"—

But she interrupted him.

"You forget that before I married you I used to write occasionally. What I did never amounted to much, for I was only a girl then. Now I can try again and do better. Dear, just let's pull together and it will be all right. I know it will!"

Distressed as she was, the wife felt a strange elation as the man she loved put his arms about her and said, with a break in his voice: "You are the bravest, finest wife any man ever had!"

Anecdotes of the Famous

SIR JOHN HARE was the favorite actor of the late King Edward, and on one occasion, playing at a "command" performance at Sandringham, he had a curious experience. The play was "A Quiet Rubber," and, in spite of the distinguished nature of the audience, a lady spectator annoyed Sir John greatly by her conversation during the performance. By an astonishing coincidence Sir John's next words in the play were, "I am extremely sorry, Mr. Sullivan, extremely sorry; but, really, with this continuous buzz of conversation going on it is perfectly impossible to play."

The rebuke, coming as it did so naturally and unexpectedly, made the talkative lady silent at once, and no one was more amused at the incident than King Edward himself.

Joseph H. Choate, when a novice, was engaged in defence of a case, and was told to trip up the plaintiff's star witness, who continually insisted, under examination, that his mind was above the ordinary.

"Now," said Mr. Choate suddenly, "explain to the court why you objected to the noise this defendant made."

"Well," relied the bragging witness, "men of brains cannot bear noise; it disturbed my peace of mind."

"You say it disturbed your peace of mind?" queried the attorney.

"Yes," answered the witness.

"Your Honor," cried the young lawyer, triumphantly, "have the jury note this witness admits having only a piece of mind."

The Honorable Nathaniel Rothschild, a member of the famous family, knows the fascinations of entomology. His particular branch of the subject is the collection and study of fleas, of which he possesses many hundreds, each contained in a small spirit phial bearing a label with the name of the animal on which the parasite was found. Among the gems in the collection is a particular variety of sand flea which comes from the Kerguelan Islands, and a South American species, with claws like a lobster, which only torments one particular and very unfortunate small bird.

One day two actors met, and one of them, who was not by any means a Tree, remarked that he had left the stage forever.

"Why was that?" asked his friend.

"Well," was the reply, "I had a hint that I was not suited for it."

"Oh, I see!" said his friend jokingly. "I suppose the little birds told you, eh?"

"No, not exactly!" retorted the former Thespian sorrowfully. "But they might have become little birds if they had been allowed to hatch."

A New Spring Outfit

High Spats and More Buttons Are Features

Higher spats and more buttons are two of the newest features of the Spring outfit. A smart costume of black and white check flannel seen recently had a coat with a pointed circular flounce, a fuller skirt and the suit boasted of sixty buttons. The spats were of the same material as the suit and were twelve inches high. A black sailor straw completed the outfit.

Telephoning a Man at His Office

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"FLOSSIE" has written to me on a subject which none of my readers has ever broached before. But it is one about which a great many of my readers would do well to think, and so I quote her letter exactly as it is written:

"After a lengthy discussion on the topic of whether it is proper for a young lady to call up her masculine friends on the 'phone just for a social call, I still feel undecided. It is to you, my dear Miss Fairfax, that I turn for a decision. Do you think it is proper for a young lady to call up different gentlemen on the 'phone just for a little chat?"

Most decidedly not, Flossie. Men who have any serious business are sure to be annoyed when women call them up just to pass the time of day. All men ridicule the feminine habit of visiting over the telephone. Any man who has anything serious to say to a girl will not discuss it over the phone. He will call her up and as briefly as possible make an appointment to meet her.

Do you know any worth-while men who make a practice of telephoning their women friends merely for the joy of conversation? The type of man who does this thing, describes his own proceeding pretty accurately when he says:

"Guess I'll call up Mabel and jolly her along a little. It's easier than trotting out to see her."

Being "jollied along" by a man is distinctly not to a girl's advantage. It is a lazy man's way of amusing himself as insincerely and as much without effort as possible. It certainly isn't worth while wasting five cents to call up such a man!

And as for the men of more worthy calibre—earnest, sincere men of the working type—to bother them with idle persiflage over a telephone, is to estrange their best liking and most sincere interest.

Don't do it. It annoys them and it places you in the category of tiresome chatterboxes completely obnoxious to the masculine soul!

Striking a Balance

Dorothy Dix Writes on the Principle of Compensation.

By DOROTHY DIX

THERE'S one search that never goes unrewarded, and that is the search for trouble. Those who start out to hunt for trouble always find plenty of it, and then some. The ability, in especial, that women have to locate a sore spot is more than talent. It is genius. And if there's no sore spot there, depend upon them to manufacture it.

Now, it is a platitude to say that nobody in the world is so fortunate as not to have some sorrow or grievance in life, and it is equally bromidic to say that very few are so miserable and so wretchedly situated as not to have something that is beautiful and desirable in existence; and that the secret of happiness is to find the one and forget the other.

I am reminded of these time-worn truths by the multitude of letters that I get from fretful and discontented wives, who, having everything to make happiness in their lives, deliberately turn their backs upon their blessings and start out on a quest for wretchedness.

The trouble with these women, and all the rest of us, is that we never strike a balance when we audit our accounts with life. We religiously put down all our losses on the debit side of the column, but we don't bother to enter up our blessings on the credit side.

Yet the only way to be happy is to be continually doing our little sum in arithmetic, and to be reflecting that if we've got this thing to weep over, we've got that thing to laugh over, and that if we've got one thing to be sad about, we've got a hundred more to be glad about.

If women would only put a hundredth part of the energy into hunting for happiness that they do into searching for trouble, we would have very few miserable and disgruntled wives. The woman who has got a good home and good clothes, and somebody to stand between her and the buffet of life is lucky, no matter what sort of a husband she's got.

The woman who has lovely children is blessed and has her life filled full of sweetness, no matter if her husband isn't all that she could wish him to be; and, conversely, the woman who has to make her own way in the world is not without her comfort, either, because she can reflect that she hasn't any man to have to put up with, and doesn't have to get up at 3 o'clock in the morning to open the door for a drunkard. She can even find comfort in not having children, because if she has missed the greatest joy in the world, she is also spared the risk of having to endure the greatest sorrow.

We speak of happiness as if it were an illusive ghost of joy. It is a concrete substance that we can make for ourselves, and the best recipe for its manufacture is to be continually balancing our accounts with joy and sorrow.

The Thoughtful Wife

"My husband has found a way by which he says I am of the greatest help to him in his literary work."

"How nice that must be for you, my dear! But how are you able to do it?"

"As soon as I see him at his desk I go into another room and keep perfectly quiet until he has finished!"

Stocks Firm in New York and Irregular in Boston, with Markets Dull and Traders Waiting—Washington Situation Causes Hesitation and Suspense

OUTPUT OF BONDS IN COUNTRY INCREASING AT RECORD RATE

By B. C. FORBES.

The largest financial institutions in New York have begun to hold on to their money.

The leading bankers expect higher interest rates.

Not only has the country's total business greatly increased, but the cost of doing business has risen.

The demand for credit facilities is broadening at such a rate that higher money is believed to be inevitable.

The flotation of new securities has been resumed on a large scale.

The output of bonds, notes and stocks by American corporations since January 1 has approached $500,000,000 or at the record rate of almost $2,000,000,000 per annum.

* * *

The total for last month was $216,000,000, an increase of $3,748,000 over February, 1915.

For the first two months of the current year domestic flotation have aggregated $479,498,000, an increase of $58,182,000.

Railroad borrowings continue very light.

Notwithstanding the phenomenal gain in railroad earnings during recent months there is little or no disposition to embark upon railroad extensions or avoidable developments of any kind.

Investors continue to prefer industrial securities, especially those supposed to possess speculative attractions.

* * *

For example, total railroad issues last month were only $68,783,000, contrasted with industrial and miscellaneous corporate financing of $147,274,000. Railroad offerings were less than half the total of a year ago and industrial issues more than doubled.

Unless a change occurs, railroad construction this year will not be so very much in excess of last year's, which was the poorest since the Civil War.

This is a phase of our national system which threatens to rise up and plague those responsible for it.

It were better for the country if part of the money now being subscribed for overcapitalized new flotations had been available for prudent extension of transportation facilities.

* * *

The aftermath in both cases is calculated to be unpleasant.

At present the public is picking up small lots of stocks, but too many outsiders are still holding shares bought last Fall at fancy quotations.

Foreign borrowing here on an important scale is pending.

American bankers are in a position to dictate the terms and their ideas do not quite correspond with the prospective applicants.

The amounts agreed upon, therefore, may be smaller than generally expected.

As each successive European loan has to pay stiffer terms, it will seem wise for foreign governments to get all they can now.

* * *

At the moment the acute uncertainties of the battlefield tend to delay the closing of negotiations.

All indications are that "first come" will be "best served" in the money market.

This advice is being given by responsible bankers to their clientele.

If the war goes on trade here, it is figured, will continue very active, thus necessitating extensive borrowing.

If peace unexpectedly should be declared, then there would be demands from other sources.

STOCKS AND INVESTMENTS
By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were strong in New York at noontime, early gains being retained by most issues. But the market continued quiet. Announcement that the U. S. Senate had voted to support President Wilson was responded to by a slight advance. The Boston market was dull and irregular.

Gains at 12 o'clock included Anaconda ¼, American Can ½, Atchison ½, Baltimore & Ohio ¼, Canadian Pacific ½, N. Y. Central ½, Southern Pacific ½, U. S. Steel ⅝, Butte & Superior ½, American Zinc ½, American Locomotive 1⅝, Crucible ¾, Republic Steel ⅞, Distillers ½, Mexican Petroleum 2¼, Maxwell 1, Studebaker 1¼, Westinghouse ¾ and Lackawanna Steel 1.

Among declines were Chino ¼, Chesapeake & Ohio ½, Union Pacific ¼, and Baldwin ¼.

Reading and New Haven were unchanged.

Gains here at 12 o'clock included Boston Elevated ¾, Butte & Superior ¼, Copper Range ¼ and U. S. Smelting ¼.

Alaska Gold suddenly weakened, both in New York and Boston. It sold as low as 19¾ in New York and 19⅝ in Boston. Other losses here included American Woolen preferred ¼, Calumet & Arizona, ex-dividend 1¼, North Butte ½, Wolverine 1, New Haven ¾ and United Fruit ½.

American Zinc was unchanged.

OPENED A SHADE HIGHER.

Stocks ranged a shade higher in New York at the opening, but the market was very dull. Traders waited for the next move in the controversy at Washington over warning Americans off armed merchant ships. Stocks are apparently in strong hands at present. Recent liquidation has brought about a general readjustment of market conditions and for this reason, and others, bears are not inclined to be strenuous. What interest the public is taking in the market is from the outside. It is being made entirely by the professional element. As to the likely trend of prices there is as much variance of opinion, as usual, but the rallying power displayed under unprecedented circumstances is presented by bulls as evidence there is great underlying strength. Uncertainty is so great as to what may develop in the foreign relations of this nation that speculation on any scale seems impossible just now. It is a period of "watchful waiting," if the stock market ever knew of one.

PRICE RANGE WAS NARROW.

The price range was narrow during the morning and with few exceptions fluctuations were fractional. Mexican Petroleum was active and strong around the start. Baldwin was active and weak in early trading. Coppers were irregular. Zincs advanced. The majority of war order industrials were either up or unchanged. Railroads were quiet.

ZINCS ONLY ACTIVE ISSUES

Zincs were the only active issues in Boston, but without much business in them. American Zinc was the most prominent. The local market opened dull and stayed so during the first hour. There was little of interest about transactions, and attendance at commission houses indicated very little attention on the part of the public. Coppers were neglected as a class at the beginning and during the forenoon.

RECENT RAILWAY EARNINGS.

Reports as to railway earnings continue to be favorable. For the last three months of 1915 New Haven's net income increased $1,483,498, compared with a deficit for the corresponding 1914 quarter.

Boston & Maine's net income increased $849,344.

Erie reports for January that its gross increased $1,126,301 and that there was a gain of $393,741 in net after taxes.

Western Maryland's January gross increased $236,702 and its net after taxes increased $142,081. For seven months its gross increased $1,441,844 and its net $926,277.

Net income for the Pennsylvania system for January increased $5,117,307, while gross increased $7,360,817.

For January the net earnings of the New York Central lines increased $4,635,380, while there was a gain of $6,052,018 in gross.

FINANCIAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

Boston bank clearings for February, 1916, totalled $800,172,518, compared with $566,589,847 for the second month of 1914.

There are about 14,000 freight cars on the New Haven system awaiting unloading. There has never been in New England such traffic congestion as exists at present.

Tax collections in New York city exceed those of last year by about $9,000,000, including revenue and income returns.
